Drugs... a family problem

By MICK STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer
The family is still the biggest influence on the lives of young people and their attitudes toward drugs, a group of 44 area business, labor, professional, religious and governmental leaders were told Wednesday morning.

The topic at the breakfast meeting held in Charlie's Restaurant was the drug problem.

Guests speaking to the group were: Beth Lubcher, MSW, of the Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependency; Dr. Jack Feely of the Collinsville Counseling Center, and Donald E. Greer, senior field supervisor for the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEGS).

In discussing treatment for both young children and young adults with a drug problem, which includes alcohol, Dr. Feely emphasized that the "family" is the major influence on the individual.

He noted that in the 1960's and early 70's the influence of a peer group was very much overemphasized.

"The family is still the biggest influence and therefore is a strong resource for treatment. It is frequently necessary to work with the entire family in treatment of a drug related problem."

Dr. Feely said, "Be aware of how you are raising your children."

Young people frequently are taught to depend on drugs by their parents unknowingly, according to Dr. Feely. An example he cited was that of a youth who wants to stay home from school. The claim he is not feeling well. The parents will allow him to do so, giving him an aspirin.

Dr. Feely said, "Be aware of how you are raising your children."

The need for education by parents and youth was emphasized by all three speakers.

Three types of drug users identified were: persons who experiment with drugs, decide they really aren't needed and drop the habit; those who experiment with no apparent trouble, and the largest group being those who get addicted and lose control, getting themselves into trouble on the job, in school or at work.

"The largest group shows a poor ability to deal with stress and never has learned to overcome it. They learn a 'downer' pill (tranquilizer) helps you relax and 'speed' (amphetamines), frequently diet pills, help pep you up and get through the day. Persons frequently become dependent on drugs and lose the ability to deal with everyday stress of working and living in our society," Dr. Feely said.

"In youth, frequently a child will flunk a test and will always blame the teacher, as it is hard for him to accept

Annexation fight looms

The Nameoki Town Board of Trustees Monday night authorized Harold Davis, Nameoki supervisor, to write state legislators and request that the state law requiring co-extensive boundaries for large cities, such as Granite City, be rescinded.

Nameoki Township is one of several taxing bodies who are concerned over the annexation of a 427-acre tract of prime industrial land west of Route 3 near St. Thomas Road by Granite City.

Since Granite City is large enough to be a co-extensive city and township (sharing identical boundaries), annexation by the city automatically places the property in Granite City Township.

Prior to the annexation, two-thirds of the property was in Chouteau Township and the other third was in Nameoki Township.

The Nameoki board discussed the issue at length Monday night, attempting to find ways to reverse the city's annexation of the land, which is owned by Illinois Power Co. and which is planned for development of one or more industries.

Frustrated by several annexations in recent years by Granite City and Township land, including Grigsby School and the Archer Daniels Midland Co. grain elevators and soybean processing plant, the board agreed that every effort should be made to stop future annexations in the township if the township is to survive.

Davis also was authorized to meet with attorneys to determine what legal steps can be taken to overturn the recent annexation of the industrial property.

At a meeting last week, officials of several taxing districts in Nameoki and Chouteau townships agreed to band together and file a lawsuit against the annexation, if sufficient funds can be found for attorney fees.

It was estimated a legal fight to the Appellate Court level would cost between $3,000 and $5,000 for attorney fees and the representatives of each taxing district were asked to return to their boards to determine how much each district can raise toward the fight.

At Monday night's meeting, Mrs. Helen Hawkins, a precinct committeeman, cautioned the board not to expend taxpayers' money for the legal fight without checking the legality of such expenditures. She said she recalled when the issue had been researched in the past and attorneys had said such funds could not be used for that purpose.

It was indicated the issue of whether to use taxpayers' money to fight annexations by the city may have to have the approval of the township electors in the April annual meeting.

Meanwhile, Davis was authorized to

Ill. Power asks rate hike

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer
Illinois Power Co. Tuesday filed a rate increase request with the Illinois Commerce Commission seeking a 14 percent increase in electric rates and a 6.8 percent increase in gas rates.

The increase was predicted by Wendell J. Kelley, chairman and president of IP during a gathering of area businessmen and politicians at the Sunset Hills Country Club Sept. 13.

However, the increase is slightly lower than Kelley predicted at that meeting. He said the utility would seek a gas rate increase of about 10 percent and an electric rate increase between 10 and 15 percent.

Discussing the need for an electric rate increase, which will take 11 months for approval after the formal request is filed, Kelley stated, "It is our belief that an increase in rates now, will reduce the magnitude of rates in the future."

He said that without rates that reflect the costs of electric generation, new construction and a fair investment return, "we run the danger of losing the favorable bond rating we now enjoy. Should this happen, our money costs (interest charged on borrowed money) will increase, and the increase will be eventually reflected in our customer bills."

"We think it is in the best interests of our customers that we remain a financially-sound company," Kelley stated.

The final figures, fixed Tuesday in Springfield, were discussed by Larry Haab, vice-president in charge of IP's rate department.

Haab estimated that the new rates, if approved, would increase the electric bills of average residential customers about $6.71 per month, while the average bill for "low use" electric customers would increase about $2.38 per month.

The gas rates sought would increase the monthly bill of those who use gas to heat their homes an average of $2.68 per month and for others about $1.25 per month.

The increases would generate about $92 million more — $60 million in electric revenues and $32 million in gas revenues — which is essential if the company is to remain stable to continue to provide the kind of service in the future now provided IP customers, Haab said.

One area of the rate increase request sure to draw opposition is the proposal that $240 million of the $500 million spent thus far in building a nuclear generating plant at Clinton, Ill., be added to the company's "rate base."

The ICC is to determine what it feels is a fair return on investment, based upon the company's rate base, or total investment. Currently, IP is allowed to charge rates which create about 9.2 percent profit on the investment. That percentage is subject to change, if the ICC feels it is necessary.

If the $240 million of the money already spent at Clinton is added to the rate base, IP customers would be paying about 9.2 percent of that figure, each year, until the plant goes into operation in 1982, it was explained.

In 1982, when the plant begins operation, IP will have invested about $1.3 billion in the facility and that entire cost will be added to the company's rate base, causing a large increase in the rates, if the ICC keeps the percentage of return at about 9.2 percent.

Carl Mathias, service area manager in Granite City for IP, said including $240 million of the cost of the Clinton facility in the rates now will help offset what could be as high as a 40 percent increase in rates when the nuclear facility goes into operation in 1982.

The company's rate base Dec. 31, 1977, was $1,452,000,000, and some facilities have been opened since that time, increasing the base, but current figures had not yet been received here, Mathias said.

"We are not asking our customers to pay for the Clinton plant, but to pay part of the interest costs of the money we have already borrowed to build it," he stated.

As Kelley explained it in September here, "With costs and time of construction what they are, neither our company, nor other utility company, can handle this financial burden any longer."

He said the concept of customers paying for future electricity they are not yet receiving is unpopular and likely will be attacked by opponents, but he said existing customers contribute to the need for new generating facilities as much as new customers.

"The cost of this investment must be

Falls from van during accident

Ricky Greenman, 25, of 2333 Benton St., was injured when he fell from a van during an accident at 27th Street and Madison Avenue at 6:15 p.m. Wednesday. Greenman was a passenger in the van of Dennis Deurize, 203 Missouri Ave., which collided with a truck driven by Deborah Copeland, 21, of 104 Martin St., and when the vehicles collided, the passenger door of the van opened and Greenman fell to the pavement. He was taken by Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated for neck pain. X-rays were taken and he was released.

Home punctured by 14 rifle gunshots

The home of Gerald Moss, 1639 Fifth St., Madison, was struck by 14 bullets apparently fired from a high-power rifle, according to the Madison County sheriff's department which said the incident occurred about 11:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 4. Moss was alone and in bed at the time. He called Madison County Sheriff Emil Toffant at home, but did not notify the Madison City Police, according to records. According to Madison Chief of Police Donald Bridick, he learned about the incident when a neighbor called the Madison police about two men in the area who said they were sheriff's detectives Friday morning. Bridick said the sheriff's department said it will send him copies of its report of the investigation, but that his department is not investigating the incident since Madison County is handling it. A sheriff's spokesman said the Madison city police had not been notified by Moss. The bullets did damage to windows and the inside of the house, officers reported. No explanation as to the cause of the shooting was given. Moss was unable to be reached for comment.

Upper Level hearing today

A hearing has been set for today on a seven-day suspension of the liquor license for the Upper Level Lounge, 19th and State streets, which was imposed by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler Monday.

The lounge was allowed to open Tuesday and Wednesday nights under a temporary restraining order issued Tuesday by Associate Judge P. J. O'Neill which restrains the city or its officers from enforcing Schuler's seven-day suspension order, since Joseph Stemmer, license holder, had not yet had a hearing to protect his rights. Schuler and Assistant City Attorney John Papa attended a hearing before O'Neill at 9:15 a.m. yesterday and O'Neill agreed he will nullify the restraining order when today's hearing has been held.

Schuler's previous order for a Monday Jan. 15 hearing at 10 a.m. on whether the license should be revoked is not affected by Judge's order and will be held at that time, Schuler said.

A previous order revoking the license issued by Schuler in late December has been appealed to the state liquor license commissioner.

Both actions, which are pending simultaneously, are the result of disturbances at or near the lounge involving weapons, Schuler alleged.

'Hungry' burglars loot home

Burglars took about $30 in change, a $23 strobe light and a $13 painting of a lady from the home of Jenny Littlejohn, 1710 Cleveland Blvd., between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 12:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Entry was gained by removing a board over a door window broken in a previous burglary. The burglars also apparently used plates and ate food while in the house.

Left behind in the home were a plastic case containing marijuana seeds and smoking paraphernalia and a Playboy pin was found elsewhere within the victim said was not hers.

Interrupts burglary

Burglars were apparently frightened away before they could take anything from the home of Louise Sellers, 3303 Kirkpatrick Home, between 9 and 9:15 a.m. Wednesday.

The victim's 10-year-old daughter returned home via the rear door and found stereo equipment wrapped in a blanket and a bedsheet by the front door. The door had been forced open.

Nothing is known to be missing.

THEFT FROM VEHICLE Items valued at about $1,197 were stolen from the vehicle of Howard Lynch, 2551 Nameoki Drive, it was discovered Monday. Taken were an air compressor, an electric drill, an electric saw, a jig saw, a tool belt and tools and electrical equipment. The right wing vent was forced open.

any responsibility," Dr. Feely noted. In answering a question on how much of a problem is in the Granite City area, Beth Lubcher said, "The problem is bigger than we think. We have an untold number that have a drug problem and won't come forward for help."

"Over half a million people smoke marijuana daily in this country. There are too many sources to stop it. The answer is in prevention of abuse, by education and teaching the proper attitudes. Parents, teachers and employers must become aware of what the problem is all about."

"In high schools, over 50 percent of the students experiment beyond marijuana and there is no sound reason to believe it will stop. Hard drugs will continue to grow and there is a never-ending supply of potential clients with problems," Dr. Feely said.

It was noted that many youths get their supply of drugs at home from "mom and dad's" medicine cabinet, which have been prescribed legally.

Drugs to many people are a profitable business, according to Greer. "I see the problem as overwhelming. We take one dealer off the street and there is always some one else to take his place," Greer said.

"As an example, a person with $275 in cash can buy a pound of 'Columbia Gold' which is quality marijuana. He then breaks it down to 20 bags and sells it for $35 a bag and clears $600. Put that back in the business and it grows to several thousands of dollars with little risk."

"In 1978 we took 33 major dealers off the street with 100 percent convictions and had two major busts in the Quad-Cities. For a time we thought St. Louis was our major problem. However, in these raids we found working with St. Louis police, that drugs were coming from the Granite City and Pontoon Beach area to St. Louis."

"Our agency is limited in manpower and finances so we have to set priorities on cases we work. We want to take the dealers out of the scene," Greer said. "Persons wishing further information or help with drug problems, including alcohol, may contact the following:

Dr. Jack Feely or Dr. Carl A. Hermansmeyer, both of the Collinsville Counseling Center, telephone 344-5094. The Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependency has an office in Granite City at 1254 Niedringhaus Ave. phone 876-5800. The office is located within the Coordinated Youth Services building.

A women's treatment center, known as "Phase Three," is located at 2010 State St., Alton, phone 1-462-2505. Lois Daniels, director.

"Phase Three" is designed to help women with an alcohol problem.

Racquetball courts among city permits

Nineteen building permits listing values of $311,330 were issued by Granite City during December, including the $252,000 remodeling of the YMCA to provide racquetball courts.

Commercial projects included a $9,500 remodeling of the Geroff dental office and a $1,400 exterior remodeling for Holsinger Rental.

Permits also included five new garages and carports totaling $7,650, one for a $1,700 room addition, one for a $6,000 mobile home and nine for remodeling and repairing structures at a cost of $3,080.

The city also issued permits for the razing of three residential structures.

LOOT MOBILE HOME

A 22-couper mobile home was stolen from the mobile home of Mary Herndon, 219 Sunny Shores Mobile Home Park, between 7:30 and 10:30 a.m. Tuesday. There were no signs of forced entry. A storage area also was ransacked, she reported.

Ill. Power

hikes are approved by the ICC, IP figures showed.

Mathias also said utility rates are being blamed for putting a heavy burden on persons living on fixed incomes.

"We are being painted as the bad guys. Of course, we are very concerned about persons on fixed incomes, but other costs have gone up more in the past 10 years than gas and electric bills."

The average annual cost for housing has increased 6.61 percent per year and the cost for food has raised an average of 6.75 percent per year over the last 10 years. Electric bills for IP customers have increased an average of 5.87 percent per year in the same period, while gas rates have climbed 6.87 percent, primarily due to higher prices from the suppliers which are passed on to the customers, Mathias said.

The gas rate increase has been surpassed only by the cost of medical care, which has gone up an average of 7.31 percent each year in the last decade.

Mathias said IP customers can decrease their electric bills drastically, by reducing the use of electricity and qualifying for lower rates which are designed to add about 10 percent more of IP's customers to the "low use customer" designation.

Customers using 3,630 kilowatt hours per year or less will be included in the lower rate category. Customers who use 15 kilowatt hours or less per day during three of the four summer months, June 15 to Sept. 17, will qualify for the lower category.

He said those who will qualify will primarily be those who do not use air conditioning in their homes and who take other measures to conserve electricity.

While the low use customers now pay an average of $159 per year, the requested rate hike would increase their electric bill to only $187 per year, the second lowest in the state. Union Electric is lower at $181 and Commonwealth Edison at $186 for 3,630 kilowatts of electricity per year while CIPS charges $221 and CILC charges $233, IP figures showed.

He said the lower electric rates for those who conserve in the summer months is "a reward for those who do not add to the peak period generation need."

He noted the company must design and build facilities sufficient to meet peak hour demands, although those facilities are not required at other times. Therefore, a large part of the construction costs incurred by IP are those necessary to meet predicted peak periods in the years ahead.

Mathias noted IP must look 10 to 12 years into the future in determining what facilities must be constructed, because construction of a nuclear plant takes from 10 to 12 years.

He said the ICC customarily takes about 11 months to consider a rate increase request, so the hikes being sought now, if approved, will not go into effect for about one year.

Annexation

write letters to state senators and representatives from this area, asking their support in rescinding the co-extensive boundary law for larger cities, and to ask for any ideas or help the legislators may have on avoiding the "piecemeal destruction" of the township through annexation.

Granite City and Alton are the only cities in Madison County large enough to be included in the state's co-extensive boundary law. Rescinding that law could allow annexation of property by the city, while still leaving it in the township to which it belonged prior to the annexation.

Davis said the officials of most taxing bodies agree that continued annexation by Granite City Township threatens the tax base of the townships, the highway departments, the fire departments, the water districts and the levee districts which rely on taxes which would be lost by the township from annexation.

In other business, the board discussed objections by some residents to a new wastewater sewer being installed by Archer Daniels Midland Co. from the soybean processing plant to existing city sewers in the Steelco Subdivision. The sewers are going in front of people's homes, damaging driveways, and there was concern expressed that hot soybean wastes to be carried by the sewers may harm lawns.

Bills approved for payment totaled $2,788 from the town fund, $3,947 from revenue sharing, $4,909 from municipal retirement, $5,131 from the road and bridge fund and $2,787 from the special hard road fund.

available in an emergency situation could mean the difference in living and dying to the person suddenly stricken when alone in the house and help is summoned.

Medical technicians with the Granite City Ambulance Service have been notified of the program by Chief Parente and will quickly check a refrigerator door for a disk, when called to the home of an elderly resident.

Should a disk be present, the attendant will immediately locate the vital and the necessary emergency medical procedures can be applied without delay.

The disks should be stored in the door of a refrigerator at all times, it was stressed.

Disks will be available in red, green, blue and yellow.

The different colors to have no special significance. "They are only to match the individual's preference in color," Hagnauer explained.

Mrs. Marcie Cherry, 89, dies

DO-RE-MI IN KODALY. Members of the Community Choral Society of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville warm up with the singing sign language of Kodaly under director Leonard Van Camp at a weekly rehearsal of the community-based group of people who "like to sing." Prospective new members are invited to join the society's winter rehearsals at SIUE. The deadline for enrollment is Jan. 16.

New SIUE Choral Society

A choral society for people who simply "like to sing" regardless of musical training is open for new membership beginning winter season, according to its president, Phil Calcagno of Wood River.

The Community Choral Society of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is beginning rehearsals this week under the direction of Leonard Van Camp, professor of music and director of choral activities at SIUE.

Area singers interested in joining the group are invited to attend one of the Tuesday sessions at 7:30 p.m. in Room 1402 of the Peck Building at SIUE. The deadline to enroll is Jan. 16. No auditions are required, but all members are asked to pay a nominal membership fee and purchase their own music.

The four-voice choral group meets for rehearsal each Tuesday during the season and usually attracts more than 100 singers from surrounding communities who may have little or no formal training.

In the past, members have included high school and college students, clerks, housewives, business people and teachers.

For the winter season, Calcagno said the society will prepare the choral finale of Gustav Mahler's monumental "Symphony No. 2," known as the "Resurrection Symphony," plus a program for a March 2 concert with the St. Louis Philharmonic Orchestra.

The group will also begin to prepare Mendelssohn's "Elijah" to be given this spring under the direction of Jerold Otley, conductor of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

Additional information about the Community Choral Society is available during rehearsals or from Van Camp at (618) 682-3590.

The exhibit has been entitled "High School Artists Statewide."

The University through this exhibit is recognizing the excellence of young Illinois artists and their teachers.

Miss Ann Rich, art instructor at South High School, is one of the 40 statewide instructors invited to display her student's art work. The Art Department of Granite City Schools is also recognized as one of the most outstanding of the state of Illinois.

Shrinking beef herd means higher prices

SPRINGFIELD — A steadily dwindling supply of beef could force retail prices up by as much as 20 percent in the next four months, economists say.

And chances are prices will climb even higher in 1980 and 1981.

The federal government's report recently on the price outlook for cattlemen shows that the nation's beef herd is shrinking and probably will continue to shrink until mid-1979.

Prices of pork — commonly chosen as an alternative to high-priced beef — could rise some, but are expected to remain more stable than beef prices next year.

"We see a substantial drop in the supply of beef of about 10 percent," said Darrel Good, an agriculture outlook economist with the University of Illinois.

"Assuming no recession and strong consumer demand (for beef), prices at the retail level should go up at least 20 percent."

"The nation's total beef herd was about 116 million head on Jan. 1 (1978), and that could drop to as low as 111-112 million head by July 1, 1979. That is down from a peak in 1975 of about 130 million."

The government's prediction is a little more conservative than Good's. U.S. Department of Agriculture economists predicted a drop in cattle numbers of 4-6 percent, about one-half of Good's guess.

But they also predicted a retail price hike of about 20 percent by March.

A price rise of that magnitude would make a boneless tip roast selling now for $2.50 per pound sell for about $3 a pound by March.

Good said the increased demand on pork caused by consumers turning away from beef could cause pork prices to rise, too. But he said he expected hog producers to increase herd sizes rapidly in response to the expected price rise and that prices to farmers would remain around the $60 per hundred-weight level early next year.

The government, however, said pork prices could go up as much as 6-8 percent on the retail level by March.

The price to farmers for beef is expected to be around the $60 per hundred-weight level until mid 1979, Good and the government economists predicted.

In addition, Good said that given strong consumer demand and a healthy economy, prices to farmers could go as high as $1 a pound for live cattle in the next two to three years.

He said cattle producers have been selling off their herds because of unfavorable financial conditions in recent years. There are indications that the trend may continue because of uncertainty over government plans for beef imports and a possible consumer backlash prompted by the high prices.

And even if ranchers began rebuilding herds next year, it would be the end of 1981 before the nation's total herd size would be back up to par.

It takes that long for cattlemen to grow replacements for their cow herds.

Pontoon ups dispatchers' pay

The Pontoon Beach Village Board voted Tuesday night to give holidays and overtime pay to the village's two full-time police dispatchers.

Village ordinances previously authorizing hourly pay only for the hours actually worked by the dispatchers were amended to include holiday pay and overtime rates.

The board also voted to increase the pay of one dispatcher from $2.88 per hour to $2.90, in line with federal minimum wage requirements which took effect Jan. 1.

The property of Gary Shaffer on Highway 162 west of Highway 111 was annexed into the village by the board. The property is next to Prill's Garage, which was annexed previously.

Balloonists challenge record

A three-man team will attempt to cross the United States in a hot-air balloon which will be launched near Portland, Oregon, on Saturday, Feb. 17.

The team will travel non-stop for two to three days and plans to land within 100 miles of the Atlantic Ocean.

Bob Esch, of Edwardsville, will head the crew which will include Lenny Barad of St. Charles, Mo., and Ed Mitchell, former astronaut who was one of three men on the Apollo 14 flight. He and Alan Shepard were the fifth and sixth men to walk on the moon.

If the team is successful it will be the first time a hot-air balloon has ever crossed the North American continent.

Esch, who has been ballooning for more than eight years, and his crew will first attempt to break the world distance and duration records in a hot-air balloon on Friday, Jan. 19.

This attempt tentatively is scheduled to start at the foot of the Gateway Arch in the late afternoon or early evening.

The three will try to stay aloft for some 20 hours and hope to travel better than 400 miles to central Ohio to break the records.

The longest distance to be traveled by a hot-air balloon is 337 miles set in 1974 with the longest duration being recorded as 18 hours and 56 minutes in 1975.

A balloon with a capacity of 525,000 cubic feet of air and an overall height of 190 feet will be used for both attempts.

Esch and his wife Candy operate the Eschaloff Balloon Co., Edwardsville, which offers flight training and balloon sales.

vote of the Citizens Committee must approve all plans.

The committee will study all property owned by the city and areas within the city itself.

Juanita Mathis has filed suit against the city and eight residents in the 1700 block of Fifth Street, alleging she was denied due process of law when her application for a special use permit was denied her by the city Zoning Board and the city council.

Residents of the area objected to the beauty shop location and voiced their objections to their aldermen and the zoning board.

On the recommendation of Madison Fire Chief Eldon Rhoads, Richard Niehaus and Mike Skoklo were approved as firemen. The two men have been fire cadets for several years.

The council entered into an agreement with the Illinois Department of Transportation where the state will take over maintenance costs of all electric traffic signals owned by the city, except the one at Third Street and Madison Avenue which the city will maintain. The only cost to the city on the other lights will be electricity.

The council further approved a 10-year agreement with Namecki Township to put fire hydrants in the Cloverleaf addition. The city will be reimbursed costs by the township.

Bids for a tractor for the street department were opened and referred to the finance committee for study. Bids submitted were Douglas Sheet Metal $526, Don Weeks $633 and Energy Savings $837.

The council and mayor complimented the city Street Department for its work during the recent snow and ice storms.

To write article for state

Eugene L. Aiassi, art education consultant and public relations director for Granite City Schools, has been requested to write a major article for the annual publication of the state, titled "Directions 1979".

The requested theme of the publication will deal with an historical analysis of the field of art education for the purpose of providing insights and awareness of what is going on within a framework of changes, developments, movements, pressures, demands, and new directions that exist within the responsibility of planning and implementing art programs in an educational situation.

Aiassi has been invited to publish an article on the topic because of his involvement and experience of many changes that have occurred in education over a period of years and as a knowledgeable individual who knows the factors in the profession that have caused many changes and the future implications as to the influence or pressures in education as it affects art education, a spokesman said.

Tips for ice driving

Winter isn't over yet, Granite City Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer warned today and he pointed out that the great danger now is overconfidence—a let-down in the winter driving know-how built up over the early winter months.

The chief reminded all drivers that our area often experiences alternate thawing and freezing at this time of year. "That means we may encounter ice where we previously drove on snow, and that ice is especially treacherous," he said.

"For example, under normal conditions, you can stop on dry pavement from a speed of 20 miles-per-hour in about 17 feet with regular highway tires. At that same speed, using those same tires, you can skid as far as 200 or more feet before coming to a stop under extreme glare ice conditions. That is almost 12 times your normal stopping distance," he noted.

Chief Veizer put the problem in other terms. "If you can stop on dry pavement in about 150 feet from a speed of 55 miles an hour, you must slow to 20 m.p.h. or less to skid to a stop on glare ice in the same distance."

Six tips to help overcome both speed-to-traction and winter visibility problems have been developed by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards and are endorsed by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, he said.

He related, "Have good tires with good treads. Better yet, use snow tires which provide half again as much pulling power in snow as regular tires. Studded snow tires (where permitted) offer still more help on icy surfaces. Radial tires may or may not improve traction on snow, depending on their tread configuration. A radial snow tread will perform as a snow tire, while a regular tread radial will perform as a regular highway tire."

"Always carry reinforced tire chains in the trunk of your car for use during severe snow and ice conditions. They provide four to seven times as much traction on snow or ice as regular tires."

"When you start out, get the 'feel' of the road by accelerating carefully to see if your wheels spin, or brake gently to see if they skid. Reduce speed accordingly. Increase your following distance. It takes at least three to nine times as far to stop on snow and ice as on dry pavement."

"Pump your brakes to slow or stop. Do not jam them on. An intermittent pumping action keeps the wheels rolling and helps maintain steering control."

"Keep your windshield, windows and all lights clear at all times. Replace streaking wiper blades gone dead from exposure to sun, wind and old road film. Be sure your windshield washer solution contains adequate anti-freeze."

"If we can keep our guard up and our winter driving know-how working," Chief Veizer concluded, "the chances are still good that Granite City can establish a commendable winter traffic safety record."

DISPLAYS HANDGUN

Madison County sheriff's deputies are attempting to identify a man who displayed a handgun and threatened a barmaid at Ray's Lounge, 608 McCambridge Ave., Madison, at closing time yesterday morning. The barmaid said two men entered and started to play the juke box. She turned the machine off, saying the tavern was closing and one man allegedly displayed a small handgun and told her he paid money to hear music and was going to hear it. After threatening her, the man and his companion left.

Assessment cutback is available under new state exemption law

An assessment cutback of up to $1,500 for property owners who live in single-family residences and who received assessment increases for the 1978 year is available under a new state law, assessment officials noted this week.

Applications for the reductions must be filled with the assessors of the township in which the property owner lives by Feb. 15.

Assessing officials explained that under the new law, a homeowner whose assessment was increased during the 1978 year, as compared with the 1977 assessment, may recover any part of the increase up to a total of $1,500.

Any homeowner who occupies the property may apply, regardless of age or income.

For example, a homeowner with a house assessed at $10,000 last year, could apply for the cutback of $500.

The $1,500 is an established figure for a four-year period. Whatever the amount cut back during 1979, the balance would remain for the remaining three years, it was explained.

As a public service, the Press-Record prepared the following form which may be returned by mail to Assessor Von Dee Cruse, Granite City Township Building, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, Granite City, and by Venice Township residents to the assessor, Mrs. Margaret Reidelberger, 422 Madison Ave., Madison, Ill.

Assessors in Nameoki and Chouteau Townships are not participating in the mail program.

Present Bi-State fares to continue

Bi-State Transit System bus fares in the St. Louis Metropolitan Area, including the Quad-City area, will remain unchanged, at least until April 1, Terry Moore, community relations officer for the system, told the Press-Record yesterday.

A tentative date of Jan. 15 for raising the present 25-cent bus fare to 40 cents has been set back as Bi-State continues talks with St. Louis County on funding matters, Moore related.

The St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association (RCGA), serving as an intermediary for the talks between the bus system and St. Louis County, he added.

"What happened is that late last year, Bi-State experienced a very severe cash-flow problem and St. Louis County said it would not release any more funds to us from the half-cent sales tax.

"Since then, they have released some of the funds, easing, somewhat, the cash-flow problem, although there remain some problems."

"In return, we agreed to set back the date for a fare increase to April 1 while we try and work out a satisfactory agreement. The county wants increased services and routes and Bi-State, obviously, needs more money."

"We expect we will be able to work out something which will be satisfactory to everyone," Moore concluded.

Obey snow route rules—Portell

Probability of more snow in the Quad-City area beginning tonight brought a warning today from Lionel Portell, superintendent of the Granite City Street Department, that local residents should observe terms of the city's snow route ordinance.

Under terms of the ordinance, parked cars left on designated snow routes may be towed away at the cost of the car owners. Motorists also may not abandon cars on snow routes under penalty of arrest and fines, Portell said.

A snow emergency may be declared by the street superintendent at any time, based on ice and snow conditions.

Portell said that some of the snow routes are not fully marked because vandals have stolen a number of the signs. Motorists living on major streets in the city should make themselves aware of whether or not they are living on a snow route, he said.

Basic streets included in the city's snow route plan include Madison Avenue, Adams Street, 20th Street, Rock Road, Niedringhaus Avenue, Johnson Road, Pontoon Road, Maryville Road, St. Clair Avenue, Terminal Avenue and East 23rd Street.

Also State Street to 18th Street and 18th Street to Niedringhaus Avenue, Nameoki Drive and 25th Street.

Mimers, Peppermint Players plan fourth annual tour

On Friday, Jan. 26, the Mimers will tour their fourth show.

Fifty Mimers, including six Mims, in the acting courses taught by F. Gordon Mueller, and the oral interpretation course taught by Wayne A. Hubbard, will create a pantomime and improvisation show especially for junior high students.

Since their creation, the Granite City High School North Peppermint Players and Mimers have done much to enrich the fine arts and speech programs of the Granite City School District, according to school officials.

Both the Peppermint Players and the Mimers took a great deal of planning, but the student talent was available at North, and the programs became successful realities.

These two projects were ideas of Dr. Goni Michaeloff, speech department chairman at North.

"Since North was a new high school, I felt that it was possible to introduce creative ideas into the Speech Department program. Also, I believed that it was important to give North speech students something original that was exclusively their own."

"I know of no other high school that has either a children's theater touring troupe like the Peppermint Players or a pantomime-improvisation touring troupe like the Mimers."

"The student leaders of each of these troupes, the Peppermint Girls and Peppies, plus the Mims are unique also. These leaders are chosen at special tryouts and remain as leaders until they graduate," Dr. Michaeloff said.

The Mimers are the counterpart of the Peppermint Players. The Mimers annually tour the junior high schools, while the Peppermint Players tour the elementary schools, both in the fall and spring semesters.

The Peppermint Players were created six years ago when North first opened as a new high school. The Mimers were created three years ago.

With the addition of the Mimers, the North Speech Department had programs to entertain every age group.

From the beginning, the purpose of the Mimers tour was to acquaint junior high students with various dramatic skill forms, and also to introduce them to one of the many speech activities at North.

The Mimers design their own costumes and makeup. They create and write their own dramatic material.

A distinctive feature of the Mimers is their gaily colored costumes.

The modified teenage stylized garb includes colorful overalls, brightly designed shirts, various distinctive hats, sneakers, and knee-high multi-colored socks. The purpose of the costume is to convey a universal youthful spirit.

This joyous mood is further shown through creative use of clown-like white makeup highlighted by use of vivid colors. Each student designs a specific facial expression makeup style.

The theme of the show is to exemplify the exuberance of life, experienced by young people today. To symbolize this theme, Mimers also carry long sticks loaded with specially designed multi-colored balloons imprinted with the Mimers name.

The Mimers first performed at the junior high schools on Dec. 20, 1976. There were approximately 30 students, including six Mims. The 30-minute pantomime and improvisation show included mime acts, burlesque routines,

RECOVER STOLEN TRUCK

The Townsend TV truck, which had a new television set in the rear, was stolen from the rear of Sacred Heart Church, August Street and Washington Avenue, it was discovered at 7:10 p.m. Monday. Psalm 37:8... "Cease from anger, and forsake wrath: fret not thyself in any wise to do evil."

Anger is a most powerful and motivating force. It has made heroes out of cowards, leaders out of followers, lions out of lambs. If anger is turned in the proper direction, it can be a blessing in disguise.

However, in most cases, anger is a destructive force. It is so because wrath, revenge, and a desire to do evil is its primary function. Hence, the instructions from the Bible... "Cease from anger, and forsake wrath."

Remember that anger in itself is not sinful. It is only when it hurts or destroys someone else that it is evil.

If anger has hindered your life, who not let the Prince of Peace help you overcome today.

Law and order issue faces the legislature in 1979

Press-Record Springfield Bureau
The holiday season was far from merry for Illinois and its state enters the new year cloaked in clouds of foreboding. The rising tide of crime and violence may rival taxes and spending as the big issue statewide as the new 81st General Assembly convenes.

As another dreary winter began settling over the state, there was gruesome mass murder uncovered at Chicago, chaos ruled at two of the state's major prisons, and even the capital city was shocked by a string of deaths through violence.

The horrendous sequence of events diverted, at least for awhile, the unprecedented storm of public indignation over the big pay raises voted by legislators for themselves and other elected officials.

Money is money and those who have a lot of it are envied by those who have less. But murder is the taking of a human life, and when it occurs with frequency, each individual thinks the dreaded thought: It could have been me.

The murders in Chicago and the inmate aggressiveness at the prisons immediately raised the public question: How can such things happen?

Why had not the sadistic slayer in Chicago been found out long before his string of victims reached 25 or more? Why cannot the guards control Stateville and Joliet?

Then there is the biggest question of all. What can be done about these things, to end them and prevent their repetition in the future?

It is a matter sure to be discussed at length on the floors of the Illinois legislature and in many committee meetings. Less than two years after the passage of the Class X legislation, law and order is again to be a major legislative issue.

Illinois, like some other states, has restored capital punishment. But it was obviously no deterrent in the Chicago murders.

Another question that may well stir a controversy similar to that preceding passage of the capital punishment bill will be: How can local police forces be strengthened to increase their chances of detecting a mass murderer without at the same time violating the accustomed rights of individuals?

There can be no easy answer to such a question, but public opinion will demand that efforts be made to try to find a solution.

The problem of stopping potential killers before they kill is matched by that of how to handle the perpetrators of violence already behind bars.

This is an old problem and it is to Gov. Thompson's credit that he initiated efforts to ease it not solve it mainly through attacking the overcrowding situation. Two new prisons are in the process of being built and additional cell space has been provided at other state facilities.

There has been a continuing shake-up of prison wardens and in the State Department of Corrections, climaxed with the firing of Director Charles Rowe.

But it would be extremely unfair to make a scapegoat of Chuck Rowe, a sincere, devoted and hard-working man who did his best in a difficult, perhaps impossible, situation. Replacing wardens at Pontiac and Stateville did not result in any return to order, peace and tranquility.

Is there really any solution to the prison problem without building more and more prisons and staffing them with heavily armed, military type guards with authority to shoot to kill at any provocation?

Prison riots occasionally occur in other states but they are usually sporadic, triggered by some easily identifiable cause. Order and calmness are usually restored within a brief period.

But in Illinois the prison violence problem has persisted, indeed worsened, for years and the end is not in sight. Why should this be so? Is there something inherently wrong with the way Illinois operates its prisons?

We do have some factors not present in other states. Illinois is, first of all, the location of the city of Chicago, recognized worldwide as the center of American gangsterism. Mention Chicago on a bus in rural England and little boys will start going "rat-a-tat, rat-a-tat."

But Al Capone did mix a bit of orderly business with his frequent executions. An occasional one-way ride is a way of discouraging competition in the booze business. Even today when the Mafia (Who anyone questions its existence?) bumps off a guy, there is usually a money motive.

But Capone's successor as the symbol of Chicago lawlessness — the street gangs — exist for the sake of viciousness itself. Like the sex deviate who murdered all those young men, the gang members kill and maim for the mere depraved pleasure of it.

What is astonishing and terrifying is that these gangs appear to have extended their power to the prisons. It is becoming accepted that it is they, and not the guards, who run such places as Stateville and Pontiac.

Breaking the power of the street gangs is certain to be a goal of those in lawmaking as well as law enforcement in the weeks ahead. How to do it is the question.

If the legislators can find the answer to this and a way to prevent further mass murders like the Gacy case, it is even possible that the citizenry might forgive them for those pay raises.

Minimum wage helps all share in productivity gains

Comment by Labor Secretary Ray Marshall — Nearly 5.3 million American workers were eligible for a pay raise on Jan. 1, when the federal minimum wage rose to $2.90 per hour.

On Nov. 1, 1977, President Carter had signed amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) establishing uniform minimum wage rates for all covered workers in the 50 states — $2.65 an hour effective Jan. 1, 1978, and increasing annually to $2.90, $3.10 and $3.35 an hour by Jan. 1, 1981.

The minimum wage law protects workers at the low end of the wage scale by enabling them to share in productivity gains and maintain at least a minimum standard of living.

The Wage and Hour Division, a part of the Labor Department's Employment Standards Administration, is responsible for administering and enforcing the FLSA, which sets minimum wage, overtime pay, child labor and equal pay standards.

Under the 1977 FLSA amendments, the percentage of tip credit which can be applied toward the minimum wage for tipped employees was reduced to 45 percent effective Jan. 1, 1979, and will

Mideast stalemate blow to U.S. image

Wall Street Journal — Among all the weekend news about China policy and OPEC price hikes, we passed the Dec. 17 deadline that President Carter established three months ago for the signing of an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

We don't yet have that treaty, of course. But more than that, the Carter administration's erratic behavior in the Mideast negotiations has considerably hurt this country's ability to mediate a peace.

Back in the fall of 1977, the administration and the State Department had brought the Mideast situation to stalemate by pushing a comprehensive all-or-nothing settlement of the outstanding issues and even letting the Soviets in as a party to the negotiations.

Egypt's President Sadat broke the logjam by going to Jerusalem to begin talks on his own.

In the months that followed, our diplomats, who diplomats draft treaty that dealt with the West Bank problem in its objections back into the pot. This time, President Carter saved the situation by convening Camp David, and again putting some distance between the Israel-Egypt peace and the Middle East's other vexing problems.

After the Camp David signing on Sept. 17, the predictable pressures began to mount — on Mr. Sadat from his Arab allies, on Mr. Begin from his political comrades.

And these pressures centered on the predictable questions: the extent to which the Egyptian-Israeli peace would be linked to the establishment of a Palestinian state.

Once again our diplomatic apparatus swung into action, on the side of a close linkage and a comprehensive plan.

At the beginning of November, what was on the table was a U.S.-approved draft treaty that dealt with the West Bank problem in its preamble. The Israelis, after initial balking, accepted this text. But in the meantime, Mr. Sadat was presenting new demands.

First, he said he wanted a fixed date for Palestinian elections, to come at the same time as Israeli withdrawals from the Sinai and before Egypt would have to live up to its side of the bargain.

Then he wanted a change in the treaty so that Egypt could still go to war with Israel under the terms of various Egyptian-Arab mutual defense pacts. Then he wanted another change saying that full diplomatic relations, with the actual exchange of ambassadors, wouldn't have to be established until Palestinian self-governance was in place.

Each time, the U.S. came up with a "compromise" between our original position and the new one that Mr. Sadat was laying out.

We suggested that Mr. Sadat's timetable be called a "target date" and moved back by three months. We suggested that the part about honoring the Arab mutual defense pacts be put in an annex to the treaty rather than the text proper.

We said that Mr. Sadat was reasonable in withholding "only" his ambassador from Israel until his new conditions were met.

And when the Israelis refused to cooperate in this little game, our president and his secretary of state publicly denounced them in a striking show of petty vindictiveness.

Worst of all, the State Department denizens who've been shoving the linkage issue into everyone's face all these months are now saying that they saw this mess coming from the first. They should know, of course, since they played no small part in creating it.

Making this particular peace was never going to be easy. It was always clear that the U.S. was going to have to put pressure on Israel in the process, and to give Mr. Sadat enough to show for his efforts. But it's equally clear that President Carter and his negotiators have gone too far.

In their search for another public victory, they've begun asking Israel not just for cosmetic concessions but for new substantive ones, and they're plagued when Israel shows that it knows the difference.

They're also trying to put Israel in a position of increasingly dependent on American good will and resolve.

But after their behavior in these negotiations not to mention the example they've just given the world in the case of Taiwan, the Israelis would have to be slightly daft to give up territory on the basis of the administration's interpretations and assurances.

Unless there's some sign soon of a change in the U.S. attitude, maybe Egypt and Israel should pick up the ball once more and hold a new Camp David without us.

New drugs, surgery for infertility

(American Association for the Advancement of Science)
With the birth of "test tube" baby Louise Brown in London last July, more attention is being paid to the problems of infertility.

A report in Science, the weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS), describes the new drugs and delicate surgical procedures now being used to treat infertility.

Gina Bari Kolata, Science Research News writer, relays estimates by the American Medical Association that 15 percent of all married couples in this country are unable to have children, and another 10 percent have fewer children than they wish.

Although infertility is as likely to occur in men as in women, most treatments are aimed at women because, at present, female infertility is easier to diagnose and treat.

The two major causes of female infertility are failure to ovulate and blockage of the Fallopian tubes.

A large number of women fail to ovulate because they secrete excessive amounts of the hormone prolactin.

Doctors are not sure why large amounts of prolactin in the blood inhibit ovulation. But a new drug — bromocriptine mesylate (Parlodel), available in the U.S. only since Aug. 1, may be a solution.

Although it is used as a treatment for infertility worldwide, bromocriptine has not yet been approved for such use in the United States because of the uncertainty about whether the drug produces birth defects.

More standard infertility treatments when a woman fails to ovulate are clomiphene citrate and HMG.

Clomiphene citrate is the most widely used, with approximately 30 percent of women who take it achieving ovulation and pregnancy after prescribed HMG, however, may over-stimulate the ovaries, causing such complications as multiple births and spontaneous abortions.

Other new ovulation-enhancing drugs are currently being developed.

The other principal cause of female infertility, obstruction of the Fallopian tubes, occurs because of infection or voluntary sterilization.

Reconstruction of blocked Fallopian tubes using "microsurgery," a new technique where a microscope enlarges the surgical field four to 25 times — has significantly increased the success rate of such procedures.

The best candidates for tubal reconstruction are women choosing to reverse voluntary sterilization — as many as 15 percent elect to have this procedure reversed.

About 75 percent of these women are then able to conceive and carry a pregnancy to term.

Women whose Fallopian tubes have been blocked by infection are much less likely to achieve pregnancy after surgery, with only a 20 percent success rate.

In contrast to these advances in treating infertility in women, investigators are not in agreement even on the criteria to use in defining male infertility.

While sperm count has generally been the standard measure of fertility, recent studies show this may be less important than sperm shape, which indicates defective chromosomes.

Sperm quantity is relatively easy to measure, but sperm quality and movement — another factor believed to be critical — are much less so.

About the only thing male infertility specialists agree on is that a more thorough study of the male reproductive system is in order.

For the present, at least, the female partner of infertile couples will continue to be more treatable.

Carter China move isn't peanuts VA backs $38 billion in housing for vets

To the Editor:
When President Carter announced recognition of Red China, two thoughts crossed my mind.

The first thought is that, in the eyes of the people, he could become the greatest president of this century — even outshining FDR, his idol.

Why? Because Red China is now eligible for at least a multi-billion-dollar, tax-free loan for the next ten years.

Prosperity, prosperity — the rebuilding of Europe under Pres. Truman could very well be peanuts, compared to this.

The second thought is that Red China is said to have hundreds of millions of people. So, there are sure to be 20 million or more suffering from human rights violations.

I doubt that China would miss or even care about so few. Being the greatest humanitarian of our time, President Carter could give them refuge and freedom here in America.

After all, the president can always use more help on his Washington public relations staff, or in the State Department. The women would feel very much at home because Communist nations have equal rights (forced).

FRANKLIN RESIDENT

Veterans used fewer Veterans Administration housing loans during 1978 than during 1977, but during the past three years housing valued at $38 billion has been bought by veterans under the loan guaranty program, the agency reported today.

Since 1965, housing bought by Vietnam veterans under the VA program has totaled about $47 billion, it was reported. This younger group of veterans has bought 1.8 million houses.

Housing guaranteed by VA during the past three years exceeds, by nearly $10 billion, the assistance provided veterans during the entire decade of the 1960s.

According to VA loan guaranty officials, data they have received indicates nationwide housing starts rose slightly during the third quarter to an annual rate of 2.07 million units. VA housing starts have shown the same general pattern as nationwide data.

On a seasonally-adjusted annual basis, VA starts reached 135,000 in October. This was the largest annual rate recorded since April. This means that the total VA housing starts for 1978 should be only slightly lower than 1977, which was the highest total in 21 years.

Veterans interested in home buying through the VA loan guaranty program should contact their nearest VA regional office, veterans service organization or veterans assistance center.

Weather blocks graveside access

To the Editor:
I just want to ask a question of Sunset Hill Cemetery — why they were not prepared for this kind of weather?

The saddest thing today (Jan. 4) was when the family and friends could not go down to the gravesite because the road was not taken care of. Why did they not have cinders on the downgrade?

The family had to have the last service with the loved one, just on the side of the road.

We could not go the last mile with our friend. This was a shame. People had better pick their time to die if they want their family and friends to be able to go all the way to the grave.

We drove all the way from Atlanta, Ga., to attend this service, only to be turned back at the end.

So, for the sake of others, I do hope and pray the next family doesn't have this to face.

CHARGE JUVENILE

A 15-year-old Granite City girl was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct after a disturbance in the 2900 block of Oregon Avenue at 5:40 p.m. Tuesday. Police said they went to get the girl and take her home when the girl telephoned her mother and allegedly used profanity toward her and toward officers. When they attempted to grab her, she struggled and it was necessary to handcuff her to make an arrest, officers reported.

The girl was released to her father on a notice to appear in court, but the father refused. She later jumped from his car on Kingshighway in St. Louis and is missing.

Introduction To WHEEL ALIGNING

The term "Wheel Alignment" is well known, but it might be better understood as "Motion Balance," because correct vehicle alignment involves balancing all of the forces created by friction, gravity, centrifugal force and momentum, while a vehicle is in motion. Proper "Motion Balance" developed by a proper alignment job will make a vehicle run smoother, have better road-holding characteristics, have better steerability, and operate with more stability while running in a straight line and around curves. It also eliminates unnecessary road friction, which causes abnormal tire wear.

These and more facts may be learned from a certified front end mechanic.

Bring your car to a professional shop. Don't trust just anyone and don't be taken in by gimmicks. Wheel alignment is a specialized field and should be done by a specialist.

Coordinated youth begins home winterization program

A Community Enrichment Project to help winterize homes in the Quad-City area has been initiated.

Under plan for the project, sponsored by Co-ordinated Youth Services (CYS), homes in targeted areas of Granite City, Venice, Madison and Pontoon Beach will be surveyed to determine how fuel waste can be reduced.

Additionally, about 200 low-income homeowners will have their houses winterized, and the work will provide jobs for 16 youths. About $167,000 in various grants have been obtained for the weatherization program. Of this money, $34,000 comes from the Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Program (YCCIP), which previously funded CYS's beautification project.

A large portion of the funds will be used as salaries for "pre-apprentice carpenters," who will gain work experience through the project and later have priority for entrance into the carpenter's union.

Energy auditors make house-to-house inspections in targeted areas to obtain information about the house and its occupants. They are trying to reach low income homeowners, with an emphasis on elderly and handicapped homeowners.

The auditors will inspect the home, using the Project Conserve Questionnaire published by the Illinois Department of Energy. Completed questionnaires will be sent to the Illinois Department of Energy for processing.

A computer printout will state what needs to be done to the home in terms of winterization, how much the work will cost and how much energy and money will be saved by taking the winterization steps. Copies of the questionnaire are available upon request.

Actual weatherproofing by CYS workers will be done to only 200-250 homes. These homeowners must meet income guidelines established by the Office of Manpower Development and must live in the home. The homeowners who qualify will have work such as installation of plastic storm windows, caulking, weatherstripping, and doorframe repair done to the home at no cost.

The program is designed to benefit not only low-income homeowners, but also youths ages 16-19 who need job experience. With the cooperation of the Illinois Power Company, the energy auditors obtained training in energy conservation. The pre-apprentice carpenters are being supervised by journeyman carpenter Charles Kunich. When the program ends, those workers will have preference in getting into the Carpenters Union. They will, however, still have to pass the standard of Carpenters test.

CYS competed with other Madison County agencies to get the grant from the office of Manpower Development. CYS is cooperating with two other agencies in the project.

The Madison County Urban League is doing much of the intake work by letting various neighborhood agencies know about the program. The office of Community Development is supplying funds for some materials and for advertising the availability of the program.

Further information about the energy audit or weatherization program is available by calling Debbie Woodworth at 876-2383.

Need $500 for Tree of Lights

The Tree of Lights Christmas appeal still lacks $500 to reach the $25,000 goal, but "I still have hope," said Captain Elmer Trapp, Salvation Army commander, said today.

"We received a $5 donation yesterday and I still have hope that we can reach our goal," Captain Trapp added.

Bruce Mort, 1978 campaign chairman, echoed the Salvation Army officer's words and urged those who have not yet sent in their contribution to help the expenses of aiding area families in need during the recent holidays to do so now.

"We are so close, but not quite there," the drive leader stated.

Donations may be taken in person to the Salvation Army Center, 3007 E. 23rd St., or mailed to:

Tree of Lights
Post Office Box 338,
Granite City, Ill. 62040.

The Salvation Army gave assistance to 1,789 people during the Christmas season, including food baskets, clothing and toys.

This figure does not reflect the 1,965 gifts given to patients at area nursing homes, nor the 596 gifts presented to service personnel at Scott Air Force Base Hospital, Belleville.

Among the donors contributing $25 or more to the symbolic Tree of Lights, with the number of bulbs illuminated noted in parenthesis, include:

Harold Mason, Miss Emma Govenat, Gerald W. Tsourpos, Nameoki Women's Club, Ralph E. Kalert Jr., Curtis Blevins, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley E. Hargrove, Mrs. Carolyn Stearns, Robert J. Rogier, William L. Berry, Mrs. Evelyn Leu.

Fire at 8:10 p.m. Tuesday destroyed the home of Hershel Phares, 2832 Missouri Ave., and firemen from three departments could only contain the flames to the garage.

City, Mitchell and Venice firemen responded to the alarm and found the six-room wooden frame house engulfed in flames when they arrived. No damage to neighboring homes was reported.

Brenda Cant marries Kenneth Zampaglione

Dual canelabrum trimmed in yellow daisies and greenery provided the setting for the wedding of Brenda Joyce Cant and Kenneth Michael Zampaglione.

The Rev. David Bruce Maxton officiated at the evening ceremony which took place Dec. 1, 1978, at First United Presbyterian Church. "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Song" were among the musical selections provided by organist Isabel Schmidt and soloist Keith Curtis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William (Ann) Kuhlmann, 2830 Washington Ave. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael (Irene) Zampaglione of Torrington, Conn.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of ribbed candlelight chiffon. The dress featured a natural waistline and sheer sleeves and sash. The scoop neck was adorned with a four-inch ribbed ruffle. The same type ruffle encircled the entire skirt at the hem. She wore flowers in her hair and carried a bouquet of silk tulips, fresh orange delight roses, baby's breath, brown yuccalipus and greenery.

Mrs. Joann Macios, a sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and Mrs. Diane McQueen was the bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of rust colored Silesta. Both carried yellow and orange daisies, baby's breath, brown yuccalipus and greenery.

Miss Amy Cant served as flower girl. She wore a brown velvet dress and carried a basket of yellow daisies. Kenneth Zampaglione, a brother of the groom, served as best man and Rick McQueen was the groomsmen. Scott Cant, the son of the bride, served as candlelighter.

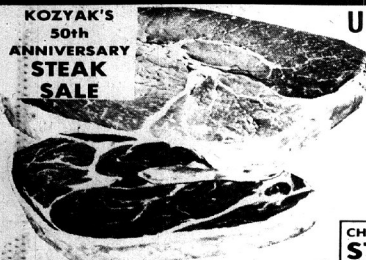

A reception was held at Mr. Yac's Restaurant, St. Louis, with Dawn Gasparovic attending the guest book.

The bride is a hair designer and styles director for the Lion's Mane Hair Design Studio, Granite City. The groom is an account executive for Spectrum Professional Color Laboratories, St. Louis.

The couple is at home in Granite City.

Quad-Cities shiver in severe winter blasts

Snow and ice are part of the winter scene in the Quad-Cities right now. The weather is lovely, if you are an Eskimo. Since most of us are not, we use the cold part of the year for indoor sports, leaving tennis and swinging in the park to wait until spring.

THOSE AREN'T RAINDROPS falling, not in January. The icicles, at upper left, are pretty to look at, but not much good for anything else.

TENNIS SHOES ONLY. The sign tells the story, but only when the courts are dry. If you venture out there these days, you will be up to your racket in snow.

THE SWINGS WAIT PATIENTLY (lower right) for the laughter of the children. The youngsters will be back, if spring ever comes.

Mitchell night at game

An educational field trip night is planned by Mitchell School for the Mitchell students to attend a basketball game played by North High School, Friday, Jan. 12 at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Gym.

The idea was approved by both principals, Gilbert Walmsey of North High School and Arthur Menendez of Mitchell School and the superintendent of schools, B. J. Davis.

The evening will be called "Mitchell Night With High School Basketball."

cheering section will be formed by Mitchell sixth graders who have been busy in their art classes making pom-poms of black and white tissue.

The children have been challenged and influenced by the Flag and Rifle groups and the National Prize Winning Granite City Steel Belles of the North Band.

The sixth-grade Sunshine-Singers of Mitchell School will sing the opening song, "Star Spangled Banner."

The Mitchell children will be admitted free of charge for the evening, but the parents accompanying the children will be expected to purchase regular price admission tickets.

It is hoped this type of cooperative school participation at home games might catch on as a continued interest building event with elementary children for high school activities and act as a stimulant in future attendance at all school activities by parents and students, a school spokesman said.

Mrs. Eva Reinagel, 21, of 1607 Union Ave., suffered pain to her neck and back after being involved in an auto accident early this week. She was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital and was released.

SIUE must shave budget

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville faces a "very difficult task" in having to cut $720,000 from the University's base budget to meet "normative cost" reduction guidelines established by the Illinois Board of Higher Education, according to SIUE President Kenneth A. Shaw.

Speaking at the IBHE meeting Tuesday in Chicago, President Shaw was responding to budget recommendations prepared by the IBHE staff for Fiscal Year 1980, beginning July 1. The recommendations include $2.5 million in increases for seven-percent salary adjustments, rising costs and new and expanded programs but shave $720,000 off the University's base budget because of "higher than normal" costs for instruction.

SIUE is one of six universities being asked to trim a total of $2 million from their base budgets on the basis of an analysis of comparative costs for instruction among state institutions.

President Shaw praised the IBHE staff for its "very professional" approach to the problem, but he warned that "rigid adherence to normative cost studies could result in a reduction of the flexibility that is necessary for institutions to respond to the unique needs of the regions they serve."

In SIUE's case, the president said, the University's efforts as primarily a commuter institution, responding with comprehensive offerings to meet special needs of the metropolitan region, sometimes result in programs that are not "cost effective."

"The social cost of not having these needed programs for the region exceeds the financial outlay in having them," President Shaw stated.

The president added that the region has "a whole host of other unmet needs," but he acknowledged, "we are going to have to deal with these needs in a society with definite limits in availability of money."

President Shaw said: "We need a climate which permits expansion without growth and expansion without large influxes of new monies."

The president pointed out that the proposed $720,000 cut is in addition to $1 million which the University reallocated in FY '78 to assist in new programming and to meet fuel and maintenance increases. "We are now involved in a three-year plan to reallocate additional resources primarily from administrative expense areas to instruction," Shaw said.

The SIUE president also urged the Board of Higher Education to recognize the impact of enrollment fluctuations on cost studies.

"We have learned from the public elementary and secondary schools, who have had years of experience with enrollment declines, that a five percent decrease in enrollment doesn't mean a proportional decrease in need for staff. A five percent decrease simply means that a class has 19 students instead of 20. While some economies can be effected, they are not on a one-for-one basis," Shaw explained.

SIUE has had a five percent enrollment decline over the past two years, reducing the number of students over which to spread per-credit cost.

President Shaw said he is concerned that excessive use of normative cost data will cause institutions to lower their standards and fight for students, while becoming less responsive to regional needs.

Regarding the IBHE proposal for a tuition increase of $48 per year for undergraduates and $94 for graduate students, President Shaw stood firmly on the position position he assumed a year ago in opposition to tuition increases, and he reminded the board there is a good possibility that proposed Federal aid to middle class students will not be approved. "If Federal aid is deferred, then the middle class squeeze I referred to last year would be made even greater as tuition is increased," Shaw said.

On the question of salary increases, proposed at seven percent by the IBHE, President Shaw said, "The issue is not so much can we hire new people or will existing people leave us, but rather that of fairness—of equity. Faculty are underpaid in the State; so are Civil Service...while understanding the need to conform to President Carter's guidelines, I am concerned that no major inroads will be made in meeting this problem. I am pleased, however, that the IBHE staff continues to recognize it as something that must be addressed."

BLOOMINGTON — Pairings for all three Illinois High School Association (IHSAA) State Final Basketball Tournaments — the 72nd year in the two-class boys series and the third year in the final one-class girls series — as well as the pairings for the correlated Sectional tournaments were drawn in the IHSAA Office Tuesday, January 9.

The annual "rolling of the peas" to determine by blind draw the matchups of Super-Sectional winners in quarterfinal games of the Boys Class A, Boys Class AA and last one-class Girls State Final Tournaments, and the matchups of the respective Regional tournament champions, was handled by Fred "Brick" Young — Sports Editor emeritus of the Bloomington Daily Pantagraph. The spacious Assembly Hall on the campus of the University of Illinois (which has been the site of the boys series final tournament since it opened in 1963) also became the home of the girls series with the 1978 State Final Tournament. Next year it will host both the boys and girls Class A and Class AA State Final Tournaments.

Following is the 1979 State Final Tournament timetable: Class A Boys March 16-17, 1979; Class AA Boys March 23-24, 1979; single-class Girls March 30-31, 1979.

Both Quad-Cities schools will play in the Freeburg Regional. Other regional winners there will be from Litchfield and St. Elmo.

For Granite City North and South, the Sectional (Class AA) will be held at Alton. The winner of the North Regional (to be played at Memorial Gym) will face the winner from Edwardsville in the second game of the tournament. Other regional winners at Alton will be from Belleville East at Wood River.

The winner of the Class A Sectional will advance to the Charleston Supersectional at Eastern Illinois University and face the winner from the Bridgeport Sectional. The winner from the Alton Class AA Sectional will travel to Parkland and face the winner from the Benton Sectional.

The winners of all 16 Super-Sectionals in both classes will travel to Champaign and the Assembly Hall on the campus of the University of Illinois for the "Elite Eight" championship series.

Salmond returning ...

Venice keeps rolling with Marquette rout

By PETE HAYES

of the Press-Record
ALTON — Ken Perkins got some good news and some great news Tuesday. First the good news: His Venice basketball team romped all over Alton Marquette High 88-62. Now the great news: Ron Salmond is returning to the Venice lineup later this month.

Salmond, who was an all-area player last season for Lovejoy High of Brooklyn, transferred back to Venice and will join the lineup Jan. 20 at home against Vashon High of St. Louis.

Salmond originally started at Venice High as a freshman, but left the school after alleged altercations with Coach Rich Essington during his sophomore year. Last year, while starting for Lovejoy, he was the subject of an investigation by the Illinois High School Association (IHSAA) because he allegedly continued to live within the Venice school district. In fact, his brother Ricky played at Venice last season. Salmond was declared eligible to play last season, however, by the IHSAA.

He enrolled at Venice High at the beginning of the current school year, but was ruled ineligible for basketball because of grades. The IHSAA informed Venice Coach Perkins that if Salmond sat out the first semester and brought his grades up, he would be eligible to play for the Red Devils.

A 6'5" jumping-jack center, Salmond will add a new dimension to the Red Devils' offensive and defensive attacks, according to Perkins. "He can do so many things well," he said. "He'll improve our inside game quite a bit with his jumping ability and the way he can be intimidating around the ball."

"With him and Donald Gardner inside, it should be a hellacious duel under the boards."

But looking at Venice Tuesday night, Salmond may find it hard to break into the starting lineup as soon as he suits up. The Red Devils played what Perkins termed "perfect basketball" for three quarters enroute to annihilating Marquette to raise their record to 5-7. "We were getting the ball inside to Gardner pretty easily and Reggie (Mathis) and Terry Arnold were hitting from outside."

Getting right down to it, there wasn't anyone in the

North downs Alton

ALTON — The Granite City High North wrestling team are wondering what they have to do to win a close meet.

The way things are going this season for North, it either wins by an overwhelming margin or loses by a narrow score. Tuesday night's meet with Alton Senior High was the former.

North got five pins and won nine of the 12 bouts in the varsity division enroute to a 48-12 shellacking of the Redbirds.

Gerald Miller got things started for North at the 96-pound weight class. He pinned opponent Chris Leyerla in 57 seconds. It took 105-pound Russ Grasso a little longer, but not much, to pin his Alton foe Mark Ford. He did it in 1:42.

Steelier 112-pound Bob Kirgan kept the shutout going when he whitewashed Alton's Mike Harpole 7-0 and Tracy Patton won a superior decision when he pounded Redbird Chris West 27-2.

Allen Kirgan of North defeated Mark Stronski of Alton 19-2, while teammate Greg Shemwell was making light of Dave Derrmann 15-2.

Kevin Shemwell got another pin for North in the 138-pound division when he stuck Redbird Pat Wilson in 5:20 of their bout.

Then came another familiar North wrestling Redbird. The opponents pined up a few points in the final five weight classes, showing exactly where the Steelers' strength is ... the lower weights.

Bruce Uzonoff was the first to fall. He lost a 6-5 decision to Alton's Mike Hartman at 145 pounds. Then Steeler Brad Taylor fell to Lamont Cantley 14-10.

PARDON ME, SIR! Venice's Ricky Jones (30) seems to be taking the basketball right out of the waiting arms of a Marquette player. Tuesday night in Alton during the Red Devils' 88-62 victory over the Explorers. Jones pumped in 14 points for Venice, now 5-7 on the season. At lower left for Venice is Reggie Mathis (14).

Farrow falls in final

By Al Barnes
for the Press-Record
EDWARDSVILLE — The Mustangs of Southern Methodist University, as expected, successfully defended the championship of the Fourth Annual Milwaukee Tennis Classic Tournament at Milwaukee over the past weekend with 25 points.

Coach Kent DeMars' Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville team, the only NCAA Division II school in the meet (the rest were large schools, Division I representatives), nosed out a very strong Tiger squad from Princeton, with 22 points for second place. Princeton was third with 21 points.

The other top 10 finishers were: South Carolina, 10; Texas Christian, 8; Michigan, 7; William & Mary, 6; U. of Arkansas, 5; Miami of Ohio, 4; and Minnesota, 4.

The finals were played

Sunday. In the singles, the tournament's No. 1-ranked Juan Farrow from SIUE ran into a buzz saw in Princeton's No. 1 player, Jay Lapidus, and was crushed, 6-3, 6-4. It was Farrow's first loss in a SIUE uniform since the start of school in September. Lapidus is ranked No. 4 nationally in the 21 and under age group. His devastating left-handed serve and his towering 6'3" height reminds one of Roscoe Tanner.

In the doubles final, the Cougars' No. 1 tandem of Farrow and Arjun Fernando lost to Southern Methodist's Mark and Jeff Turpin, 7-5, 7-5. The Turpin brothers were ranked No. 2 in the meet's doubles draw, and the Cougars No. 3.

Farrow and Fernando played their best tennis of the tournament in their Saturday semi-final match with Princeton's Lapidus and Leif Shirus. The Tigers were ranked No. 1 in the meet. The Farrow-Fernando duo knocked off Princeton, 6-3, 6-2.

The Cougars' next action will be this Saturday at the Town & Country Racquet Club in St. Louis when they take on the St. Louis Tennis Pro Team. There'll be six men's singles, three women's singles, two men's doubles, one women's doubles and one mixed doubles.

Peebles 3rd in nation

EDWARDSVILLE — Keil Peebles, point guard at SIUE Edwardsville, ranked third in the United States in free throw shooting in weekly statistics just released by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Official Basketball Statistics office at Shawnee Mission, Kan.

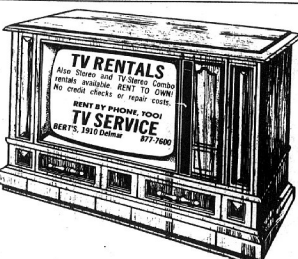

The statistics are for games through Dec. 30. Peebles is listed as hitting on 27 of 29 chances from the charity line. His .931 average trails first-place Cornelius Hill of Alabama A & M's 1.000 (19 of 19) and Scott Gadd of Southern Colorado's .933 (14 of 15).

An all-stater from Johnston City, Ill. High School, Peebles is in his fourth year as a starter and star for the Cougars. Each year he has been in the nation's top 10 free throw shooters. Last year, he broke the University's all-time scoring record established by Keith McFarland. Every point he now makes, consequently, sets a new SIUE point-making mark.

With the season near the

The Cougars will play Indiana State U. at Evansville, Saturday at 8 p.m.

GC North's Steelerettes get ready for '79 season

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Although the boys' high school basketball season is almost halfway through, the girls' teams are just ready to begin.

At Granite City North, Coach Lee Obermueller is preparing her squad for the fast approaching start of her second season at the helm of the girls' team.

"Our goal is to finish better than last year," said Obermueller. "If we can do better than last year we'll be happy."

In pursuing that goal, North will have the services of 10 returning players from last year. That squad finished 4-7. Among that 10, four are seniors.

"That's good," said Obermueller, "because those 10 know each other and they seem to communicate and think together."

The abundance of experience will allow North to exploit the strong reserve talent that Obermueller expects to have this season.

"We're not going to rely on one or two people," said the coach. "I don't know if I can pick any standouts."

That might be North's major strength in the upcoming campaign. "We're pretty well balanced," said Obermueller. "We've got good height, good ball handlers, and we've got some kids who think and are cool-headed."

Obermueller said she was optimistic about her team's future especially because of the experience and balance that are the key features of the squad. In order to sharpen these attributes the coach said that conditioning was vital.

"We do a lot of running and conditioning to get these kids into shape," she said. "We're not what you would call a running team. We're more of the set-up type. But we're not rigid. If we have to fast break or press we'll be able to."

Leading the squad this year is captain Sheri Ripka. Sheri is a member of a familiar basketball family in the area. Her brother was a very talented performer for the Granite City Warriors a few years back. She is joined by Pat Brandebas, Laura McKee and Leslie McIntyre as the seniors on the team.

All but McIntyre are returning from last season. McIntyre is a transfer student. The other six returnees are juniors, so North's future, at least for next year seems encouraging.

If enthusiasm will help win games, then North seems in fine shape. "They're a good group of kids and they're good to work with," said Obermueller. Their enthusiasm gives you that extra good feeling. I want to win like everybody, but I want them to have a good time too. We really stress the team element."

Enthusiasm for girls basketball has been increasing at the school. At the beginning of practice on Dec. 5, Obermueller was pleased to find about forty girls had come to try out for the team. By now, about weeks before the season open against Madison, the squad is down to the girls who will comprise the team.

Because Obermueller chose to wait until after the holidays to begin competition, North is behind other area teams. "I like to give these kids some time off for the holidays," said

Obermueller. "A lot of them come right from volleyball to here. Some teams, like East St. Louis has played through the holidays and already have played in tournaments."

Obermueller is pleased with the progress made in girls basketball so far. She sees the entire sport growing in popularity, but she's attempting to control the speed of the growth at North.

"I don't think you can make it bigger with legislation like Title Nine," she said, "but I think the growth at the college level will eventually help us. The more it improves at the higher level the more incentives there will be for high school girls. Right now we're going slow observing other places and they're advantages and disadvantages."

Cougars host EIU, 'Cats

By DAVE CAUSEY
of the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — The wrestling Cougars of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, coming off a 3-2 road trip to California last week, will play host to Eastern Illinois University and the University of Kentucky, Saturday (Jan. 13). The meet is scheduled in Meridian Ballroom of the University Center at 1 p.m.

The Panthers of Eastern are ranked in the top five in NCAA Division II and are a definite contender for the national title. They have finished returning All-Americans on their squad, including 158-pound Bob Holland, a former Division II runner-up.

The first stop on the road trip for the Cougars was at Fullerton, Calif., where the Cougars slashed California, 36-11. The Cougars accepted three forfeits and gave up another in the injury-riddled contest, leaving only six regular matches to be wrestled.

Terry Mulrenin, a 126-pound senior, scored the first Cougar victory with a fall over Steve Leason in 1:38. Following suit for the Cougars were 150-pound Dru Meshe, who scored a 9-7 victory over Mike Elliot, and 158-pound Tim Napier, who turned in an 8-2 triumph over Fullerton's Ron Cota.

SIUE Freshman Charles Shelton, doing a fine job for the Cougars at his 167 spot, took an early lead in his match with Jeff Morrow, but the Fullerton senior wrestled back and forced an 8-8 draw, setting the team score at 26-8. Norm Mitchell finished off the Cougar victories with a 15-5 victory over Byron Bantam.

The three Cougars who won by forfeits were 118-pound Tom Reed, 142-pound Mike Lorentzen, and 177-pound Mark Hattendorf.

Tim Ervin suffered a pulled muscle in his leg and was forced to forfeit in the 134-pound event.

The Cougars then drove on to Bakersfield to vie with the Roadrunners of California State University, Bakersfield, who are currently ranked first in NCAA Division II. The Roadrunners apparently justified their ranking by dealing the Cougars a 40-6 thrashing. The lone Cougar victor, Hattendorf, was leading his Bakersfield opponent, Bill Choate, 7-0 midway through the second period when the latter succumbed to a serious rib injury. But by that point, the score was 31-0 in Bakersfield's favor, so Hattendorf's victory was purely an individual matter. The remaining nine Cougars lost their events. All-American Reed lost 16-9 to Joe Gonzales, a Bakersfield junior, who was a member of the U.S. World Games team last summer.

Cougar Coach Larry Kristoff was a member of the coaching staff of that team and speaks highly of the Bakersfield star. "He is definitely a good one. It will take a heck of a kid to beat him," Kristoff said.

SIUE Senior All-American Mulrenin lost to John Avezedo, 126 pounder, and an NCAA Division I runner-up last season, by a score of 13-10.

Ervin tried to go in his 134 bout with Ed Reyes and astounded onlookers by taking a 2-0 lead, even with a severely injured leg. However, when the third period began with Ervin on the bottom, the leg was not up to the strain, and Coach Kristoff forfeited the match.

Cougar Lorentzen at 142 pounds, lost by fall to Tom Gongorra, who was an All-American at 150 last season. By then, the team score was already a dismal 18-0.

The shocker of the day came when Bakersfield unknown Marty Maciel blitzed 150-pound Cougar All-American Dru Meshe, 12-3.

All Cougar hopes of a miraculous come-from-behind victory vanished as 158-pound Napier dropped a 6-2 bout to Dave Johnson, putting the team score at 25-7. With only four bouts remaining, the Cougars could score only 24 points.

Bakersfield's senior Kevin Digan pinned SIUE's Shelton in 4:20 to insure the runaway.

Girls' cross-country added to schedule

BLOOMINGTON — A state meet series in Girls Cross Country will be instituted next fall and will be one of 13 series for girls and 11 for boys in athletics conducted by the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) during the 1979-80 school year, according to action by the Board of Directors at its Dec. 4, 1978, meeting.

A committee of persons with expertise in the sport will be appointed by Executive Secretary Laverne L. Astor to develop Terms and Conditions for the new series, and establish other administrative procedures. Terms and Conditions are the rules, regulations and series format under which competition in a given activity sponsored by the Association is conducted.

Terms and Conditions for all athletic activities are reviewed annually by the Board of Directors, after having been evaluated by an Advisory Committee for the sport, and reviewed by the Athletic Administrators Advisory Committee.

The Board did not set a timetable nor establish guidelines in which the committee of persons with expertise in the new series sport must develop the state series Terms and Conditions. According to reports by member schools to the IHSA Office, 135 schools sponsored interscholastic competition in the sport of Girls Cross Country this past fall (1978-79 school year). Board policy stipulates that if 15 percent (at least 126 of the present 839 schools) of the member schools conduct an in-terscholastic activity, the Board may institute state series competition in the activity. Likewise, Board policy stipulates that if 10 percent or less (84 of the 839) of the member schools enter a given state series the Board may delete the state series in such an activity.

Only 25 schools entered the first level of competition in the Girls Archery Series, and only 34 schools entered the first level of competition in the Girls Field Hockey Series this past fall. The Board voted to continue the state series in Boys Gymnastics and Girls Field Hockey, and voted not to delete the Girls Archery state series, for the 1979-80 school year.

The following athletic state tournament-meet series will be conducted for girls during the 1979-80 school year: Archery, Bowling, Basketball, Badminton, Cross Country, Field Hockey, Golf, Gymnastics, Softball, Swimming, Tennis, Track and Field and Volleyball. Two-class competition (Class A for schools with enrollments of 750 or less and Class AA for schools with enrollments of 751 or more) has been approved for Basketball, Track and Field and Volleyball.

The following athletic state tournament-meet series will be conducted for boys during the 1979-80 school year: Baseball, Basketball, Cross Country, Football, Golf, Gymnastics, Soccer, Swimming, Tennis, Track and Field and Wrestling. Two-class competition will be conducted in all sports series except Gymnastics, Soccer, Swimming and Tennis.

Two Cougars drafted

By Al Barnes
for the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — Soccer goalkeeper Bob Robson and defender Mike Kelley of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville were early draft choices yesterday in the North American Soccer League. They thus became the 23rd and 24th SIUE soccer stars to be drafted by the pros since the sport was inaugurated by Coach Bob Fuelleker at the University in 1967. The draft was held in New York City.

The quick-as-a-cat Robson was picked by the Atlanta Chiefs as their first selection in the second round and was 36th overall in the entire draft of 96 outstanding United States collegiate and high school players.

BOB ROBSON

MIKE KELLEY

After earning a starter's berth midway through his freshman year, Robson became a fixture in the nets for the Cougars for the past three very successful years for SIUE, including a near miss for the NCAA national championship at Berkeley, Calif., two seasons ago. Robson prepped at Rosary High in St. Louis.

Both Robson and Kelley are in Jamaica this week with SIUE's varsity squad for a pair of exhibition games with that island's two best senior amateur soccer teams.

Venice

Venice lineup who had a bad game Tuesday.
Ricky Jones seems to have finally found the range for the 15-foot jumper which made him a dead-eye shot last season. "Ricky's been shooting real well for us the last two games," said Perkins. "He looked as if he was trying to come out of his slump a little during the Freeburg Tournament."
"We (Perkins and assistant coach Chuck Mosby) got him alone at the gym during Christmas break and worked on changing his shot a little. He was going straight up and keeping his feet together."
"We got him to keep them apart and the result seems to be good."
In the last two games, Jones has made 15 out of 21 shots from the floor.
Venice received a balanced scoring attack... something that has become a trademark for the Devils this season. There were four players in double figures against Marquette, Jones (14), Mathis (12), Gardner (13) and Matkins (16).

"What does the balance mean to Perkins? "It lets Donald (Gardner) do more things," he said. "The first few games of the season, he was just about carrying the team. But since we've found a few other scorers, it takes some of the pressure off him."
Late in the second quarter, Perkins was probably glad he'd found that new balanced scoring attack. Gardner was injured when hit in the face with the basketball.
"He was working like a dog inside," said Perkins of Gardner.
"So we wanted to give him a rest and let him rotate outside and let Jones do some of the hard work under the basket."
"Gardner was standing along the sideline in front of our bench and turned his head for just a split second to say something to me. That's when he got popped in the side of the head with the ball," said Perkins.

Gardner was taken to the dressing room where he remained until the second half. According to Perkins, Gardner wasn't seriously injured.
Marquette, meanwhile, was in a frustrating situation. The Explorers tried early in the game to work the ball inside but couldn't find it being knocked away or stolen by the Venice defense. Presto, there went Game Plan A.
But for Marquette, Game Plan B was less effective. The Explorers tried to catch Venice napping after Red Devil baskets by throwing the ball the length of the court on the inbounds pass to get an easy layup. They tried it at least four times and at least four times Reggie Mathis was there to pick off a clean interception.
"Reggie suckered them on these plays," said Perkins. "We had lined up in a 2-2-1 defense with Gardner to one side. Reggie would sort of fake like he was going the opposite direction, but when the Marquette player cocked his arm to throw it, he'd move right back and pick it off every time."

Venice fans will get a home-court look at the Red Devils tomorrow (Friday) night when they host Livingston (junior varsity at 6:30, varsity at 8 p.m.).

Allen's finest hour comes against Reno

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record
EDWARDSVILLE — It was Jimmie Allen's finest hour as a basketball player for the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Cougars, Jan. 2 in Reno, Nev. as the host Wolf Pack won, 90-66.
He didn't break the bank at any of the gambling casinos, but he did hold the sensational 6'10" Edgus Jones to a mere 15 points while scoring 18 himself.
It was Reno-Nevada's seventh straight victory and ran the Pack's record to 10-1, and but for the controversy over Jones, the West Coast Athletic Conference quintet would almost certainly be ranked in the nation's top 20 teams.
But, while SUE's 6'9" Allen was smothering Jones, the Wolf Pack had two others shooting sensationally from the floor: Mike Gray canned 13 of 19 and Thaxter Arterberry was pouring in 8 of 14.

The loss dropped Coach Jim Dudley's Cougars to 3-8 for the season. Again the Cougars stayed in contention the first half, trailing 38-28. But as they have all season, the Cougars suffered severely at the free throw line. They made six of 11 tries, while the Wolf Pack connected on 20 of 30. SUE was whittled for 26 infractions, while Reno was charged with 16.
What made Allen's performance against the Wolf Pack even more impressive was the fact that, just nine days ago, it was feared that the elongated native of Morrisville, Ill., appeared to be lost to the Cougars for the season due to an ankle injury. However, his excellent condition helped him to regain his form.

Carey, a native of St. Louis, starred for Moberly, Mo. Junior College and Drake U., enroute to his head coaching stint with the Wolf Pack three years ago.
What really broke the back of the Cougars was the Pack's surge at the beginning of the second half. Nevada rang up 10 straight unanswered points to increase its lead to 48-28, and then went on to outscore the Cougars, 52-38, in the final 20 minutes.

Mitch Steen got some additional points for North in the 167-pound division when he pinned Jim Long in 5:29 followed by another pin from teammate Mike Painter in the 185-pound weight class. He did it to Pat Corty in five minutes.
Allen got his final points when heavyweight Terry Banks pinned North's Bryan Johnson in three minutes of their bout.
In the junior varsity meet, North claimed a 44-14 victory while the Steeler sophomores were downing Alton 33-9 (results in Scoreboard).

South skaters fall 8-2

ST. LOUIS — The Granite City South club ice hockey team's record dipped to 3-7 here Monday night when it lost an 8-2 decision to powerhouse Lindbergh.
Lindbergh, which is considered to be one of the top amateur hockey teams in St. Louis, didn't exactly have an easy time of it until the third period.
Late in the second period, South had a 2-1 lead on the favorites, but saw it slip away when the foes slipped two goals past Warrior goalie Greg Mulach.
Going into the third period, and trailing 3-2, South tried to keep up with Lindbergh, but simply ran out of steam. Mulach kept South in the game with some fine saves, but he simply couldn't do it all himself. South was outshot 60-21.

South's two goals were scored by Andy Hinterser (from Tim Dix) and George Whaley (from Bruce Monahan and Hinterser).
South's next game will be this Friday at 9:15 p.m. against Clayton at the Dellwood rink.

Henry pumped in 25 points from the losers and Ray Mosby, who didn't play the previous night due to an injury, earned 15 points. Hinterser tallied 12, while Zobrist and Cox notched 8 each. Gardner scored 7, Klein 6 and Bryant 2.

McKendree, now 11-5 on the season, will host Harris-Stowe College tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Bearcat gymnasium. Nate Clay, a former Bearcat athlete who was paralyzed in an accident in 1970, will be honored during halftime. Clay is the author of the book, THE NATE CLAY STORY, which describes his life after his accident.

LEBANON — The McKendree College basketball team split a pair of games on the road last weekend, downing North Central, 93-78 January 5 and losing to Chicago State, 93-83, January 6.
The Bearcats led the entire game against North Central Friday night, taking a 45-38 advantage at halftime.

McKendree scorers with 33 points
Barry Cox notched 15 points, while Rod Zobrist earned 10. Bob Haida and Larry Bryant tallied 8 points each. Kurt Klein had 6, Juan Ferguson 5, and Lance Gardner and Gary Haverman contributed 4 each en route the Bearcat win.

Illinois traffic deaths cut in '78

Illinois traffic fatalities were 33 less than last year, according to figures released by Lynn E. Baird, superintendent, Illinois State Police.

Illinois had 2,137 traffic fatalities during 1978, a decrease of 33 under last year. Total fatalities during the month of December was 147. Total traffic fatalities in District 11 during 1978 was 182, a decrease of 10 under last year.

Captain Albert J. Bertagnoli, commander of District Eleven, said that the high enforcement activity of District 11 Troopers was a predominate factor in the reduction of fatal traffic accidents.

During the calendar year of 1978, District 11 personnel made 65,100 enforcement contacts, assisted 2,861 motorists and investigated 4,329 traffic accidents. The enforcement contacts include 609 criminal arrests, 235 driving while intoxicated charges and 4,633 overweight arrests. There also were 204 stolen or abandoned vehicles recovered.

Further efforts to reduce traffic accidents was the utilization of the Concentrated Traffic Enforcement Program during six months of 1978. CTEP is a federal-funded program utilizing off-duty troopers, to patrol selected high accident highways during those hours and days of high accident risk.

Troopers working CTEP during 1978 accounted for an additional 4,130 enforcement contacts, of which 11 were criminal arrests.

Another 50 motorists were assisted by troopers working CTEP. This program again will be utilized during the months of May and June, 1979, in an effort to further reduce traffic accidents.

Klondike Derby Saturday

Although the snow is a prelude for many, about 400 Boy Scouts and their Klondike style sleds are expected to participate in the annual Cahokia Mound Council Klondike Derby on Saturday.

About 200 patrols will compete at the SIUE Tower Lake Recreation area from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Each Scouting event will test the skill and team effort of each patrol. Skills the Scouts will put to the test include compass, fire building, ice rescue, winter first aid, sled pulling and winter camping. In addition, there will be a special sled-pulling contest. Members of the Cahokia Lodge, Order of the Arrow, are assisting in the administration of the event.

Plan craft classes at SIUE

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's craft shop will offer a wide variety of five-week courses, beginning Monday, Jan. 22 through Friday, March 2, according to Ed Carly, coordinator.

"Winter is a particularly good time of year to learn arts and crafts," said Carly. "We are basically in the business of providing information and instruction of crafts according to individual needs and interests," he explained. Two-hour classes in photography, cartooning, stained glass, ceramics, leather work, painting, drawing, jewelry making, macrame, crochet, knitting and weaving are among offerings.

All classes are open to the SIUE community and general public. Registration for craft shop courses began Wednesday.

Cost for a class ranges from $10 to $15 per person, according to the particular subject, Carly said. Additional information concerning winter craft shop classes is available by contacting the University Center Craft Shop at (618) 682-2178.

Child abuse film Sunday

In any given year, more than a million children in the United States are abused by their parents. Perhaps the most startling aspect of this American tragedy is that the abusers, far from being cruel and callous, are otherwise normal women and men who simply find the pressures of parenting more than they can handle.

These child abusers — as well as ways to combat this heartbreaking problem — will be examined in "Raised in Anger," an hour-long special airing at 8 tonight and at 2 p.m. Sunday on Channel 9. Previously, several television programs about child abuse have focused on the battered child. This special, however, offers help to the parent.

Edward Asner, Emmy Award-winning star of television's "Lone Star" series and the father of three, hosts and narrates "Raised in Anger."

The United Nations has designated 1979 the International Year of the Child, and the urgency of the problem of child abuse makes the designation more than appropriate.

"Raised in Anger" focuses its study of abuse on six parents, a married couple, a divorced couple, a single parent and a young mother, all of whom candidly discuss their experiences on camera. As a group, they are attractive and articulate, hardly corresponding to the stereo-typed image of abusers. But none was quite prepared for the demands of child rearing, and all found their children convenient, defenseless targets for their own frustrations.

One option captured on film is parenting associations, informal groups in which parents can discuss common problems. A more formal, national organization is Parents Anonymous (PA). At PA meetings, parents can confront their fears without the threat of retaliation or the loss of their children.

"Raised in Anger" includes film footage from one such PA session. Also featured is a segment filmed at Pittsburgh's Parental Stress Center, a unique treatment facility for abused or high-risk infants.

Consultants on the show include: Dr. Jack Reinhardt, child psychiatrist and Director of Child Protection Services at Pittsburgh's Children's Hospital; Elizabeth Elmer, renowned researcher, social worker and author in the area of child abuse; Dr. Salie Davis, a child development specialist and founder of Pittsburgh's Parents Anonymous; and Dr. Eli Newberger, Director of Family Development Study and Chief of Family Development Clinic at the Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston, an assistant professor in Pediatrics at Harvard Medical School and author of numerous articles on child abuse and neglect.

Channel 9 plans an announcement before and after "Raised in Anger" telling interested parents where they can get help in the area.

Upper Level hearing set for Monday

The Upper Level Lounge, 19th and State streets, was ordered closed Monday evening for seven days by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler after a hearing has been set for 10 a.m. Monday, Jan. 15, to determine if the lounge's liquor license should be revoked.

Papers were served on Joseph Stemmer, liquor license holder for the lounge, at 4:30 p.m. Monday after Schuler reviewed police reports of a fight outside the lounge at 3:09 a.m. Sunday in which one youth was struck by a tire iron or similar object. Officers broke up the fight, but there were no arrests.

The lounge had just reopened from a seven-day suspension ordered by Schuler Dec. 29. Schuler ordered the liquor license revoked during a hearing Jan. 5, but the lounge reopened after that order was appealed to the state liquor license commissioner.

Agronomy Day Jan. 17 Career Day at SIUE Jan. 17

By RON CORNWELL
County Farm Advisor
The 1979 Madison County Agronomy Day will be Wednesday, Jan. 17, at the Farm Bureau auditorium in Edwardsville. The program will begin at 10 a.m. with coffee and registration at 9:30 a.m. according to Bob Bunselmeier, chairman of the Extension Agronomy Committee.

A free sandwich lunch will be provided at noon. The lunch is sponsored by agribusinesses in Madison County.

George McKibben, University of Illinois agronomist, will present the latest information on double cropping. He will cover weed control, fertilization, planting dates and many other topics relating to double cropping.

John Hix, state district forester, will cover selling timber from your farm. He will discuss how to mark timber for sale, estimating timber volume, determining a fair price and how to contact the timber buyer.

Roger Stump, Alhambra township farmer, and Bernard Martin, Marine township farmer, will show slides and talk about their individual farming operations. Ordie Hogsett, University of Illinois safety specialist, will discuss safety on the farm.

Larry Lappin, assistant extension adviser, will present an update on energy and Ron Cornwell, extension adviser, agriculture, will summarize the wheat and soybean plot variety results.

The 1979 Agronomy Day was planned by the Agronomy Committee. Those on the Agronomy Committee included Bob Bunselmeier, Jim Bauer, Leonard Niggl, Dave Mueller, Richard McCammack, Bill Ambuehl, Gordon Gass and Don Krieger.

For additional information on the 1979 Agronomy Day, Quad-Citizens may contact the Extension Service office. The University of Illinois has available a new handbook entitled "Home and Yard Improvements Handbook."

The handbook is a do-it-yourself guide with emphasis on making maximum use of space for storage and home improvements. It is a supplement to a favorite Midwest Plan Service handbook, Family Housing Handbook. Together they make remodeling, or even building new an easier task. The storage section of the book deals with how to determine how much storage space you need and how to get it. The book alerts you to uses of commercial units and government fields at the Career Information Day scheduled Wednesday, Jan. 17, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

A total of 26 employers will be available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Goshen Lounge to discuss individual career choices and job requirements for their organizations. "It is an excellent opportunity for freshmen through graduate students to meet and talk with professionals in each student's selected field," according to Jo Gibson, spokesperson for University Placement Services.

Career Information Day is sponsored by the Student Activities Office and University Placement Services and is open to all students at SIUE and area high schools and colleges. No appointment is necessary. Additional information is available from the University Placement Services at 1-692-2800.

Workshop on water treatment

An operation and maintenance workshop for stabilization pond operators at wastewater treatment facilities will be held Jan. 31 in Feb. 1 at the Environmental Resources Training Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The workshop, which meets from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, is aimed at both operators and laboratory personnel, according to John Krantz, coordinator of wastewater treatment operations for ERTC.

Krantz said the class will study various types of ponds and major factors affecting their performance, including start-up, sampling, problem solving, record keeping and preventive maintenance. Credit is 1.4 continuing education units through SIUE or the equivalent 1.4 certification credit points through the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Preregistration is required for the session. Enrollment is limited but open on a first-come basis. Registration fee is $46, in advance, including texts and materials. A full refund is guaranteed for written cancellations received by Jan. 23. Transportation, housing and meals are not included.

For additional information, or to preregister for the workshop, contact John Krantz, ERTC, Box 78, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, 62026 or call 1-692-2030.

Frozen frowns

My sister, who lives in St. Louis, says it's not as much fun to go to the grocery store as it once was. "I can remember when customers actually smiled while shopping, and took time to talk to each other," she says. "But not anymore. In these days of inflation, everyone is so busy looking for a bargain, or a few-cents-off coupon, they don't have time to talk. They wear such serious looks on their faces."

Since she said that, I've taken more care to watch the expression of people's faces, out in public. What catches my eye is the worried, anxious look I see in the faces of so many drivers or passengers in cars that I pass.

Oh, I don't mean out on the highway, for you pass so quickly you can't see their facial expressions. But I'm talking about parking lots, at stop signs and the like. If you don't believe me, look around you. (Warning: keep an eye on your driving, too!) Notice the harried, almost desperate look in the eyes of so many people.

I'm not saying this is true of everyone, by any means. But I see enough of it that it makes me wonder what seems to worry so many people. We are often so preoccupied with where we're going, or where we've been, that a certain rigidity, or soberness, sort of freezes our faces into frowns.

We watch the rear-view mirror to see the traffic behind us. We might try using it to see the person in the driver's seat. Ourselves, that is. Our frowns.

A. "The Hardy Boys," starring Parker Stevenson and Shaun Cassidy, may be popular among teen-agers but not in the television ratings. The program premiered in January, 1977 and climbed rapidly to the top of the Nielsen ratings. When "Hardy Boys" returned this last fall, it sagged drastically

Directory Assistance doesn't cost extra if you need it because you're physically disabled.

Earlier this month, Illinois Bell began charging extra for heavy use of Directory Assistance.

But if you rely on Directory Assistance because of a severe visual or other physical disability that prevents you from using the directory, you won't be charged extra.

To avoid the charge, call your Illinois Bell service representative and request an exemption form. Fill it out, listing the name and address of a physician or agency for the disabled that can verify your handicap. And return it by the end of January, or as soon after as you can.

Illinois Bell wants to make sure that physically handicapped people can get the Directory Assistance they need without being charged extra.

If you aren't physically handicapped, but know someone who is, please pass this word on to them. To help them, we need your help.

Randall Irwin honored

Randall A. Irwin of the Irwin Chapel for Funerals has been granted a 1978 Professional Certification Award by the Illinois Funeral Directors Association. This award is in recognition of his active participation in professional education programs at the state and national level and for his community service in providing educational materials to schools, churches and civic organizations in the community.

The Award also recognizes his community service and professional contributions to the association.

Irwin is among the four percent of all IFDA membership to attain the Professional Certification Award which recognizes him for his achievements during 1978.

The Illinois Funeral Directors Association, now in its 99th year of service to the Illinois community, has planned a series of educational programs and civic projects by which its 800 firm and individual members may seek certification. This year's theme, "Awareness - Key to the Future," puts emphasis on the need for greater public awareness regarding the impact of death and dying on survivors.

IFDA members throughout Illinois are prepared to assist their communities in better understanding how to cope with the loss of a spouse, child, parent or other loved one. Achievements for which Irwin was recognized were listed by the association as a basis for the award.

Irwin made several funeral service presentations during the past year. He talked about the funeral director's role in the community at Pontoon Beach Baptist Church. Members of the First Assembly of God Church toured the Irwin Chapel for Funerals where Irwin gave a talk concerning the funeral service.

Helping people cope with grief was discussed by Irwin at a Sunday morning service at Grace Baptist Church. He also spoke to the Granite City Kiwanis Club concerning the benefit of the new city ambulance service.

versus private ambulance service.

Irwin showed films at several area churches, schools, and civic organization meetings. Among the films shown were "A Taste of Blackberries," "A Service No One Else Provides," "Funeral Customs Around the World," and "Funeral Customs the World Over."

He has been involved in the high school occupational programs, including Career Day and co-op student programs.

In the past year Irwin has made many brochures available to the public on such topics as "Facts Every Family Should Know" and "Funeral Pre-arrangement for Security and Tranquility."

He participated in the 1978 Shriner's Parade and provided an ambulance for Jaycee athletic functions. He served as chairman of the Jaycee's Annual Handicap Bowling Sweepstakes which raises money to buy needy children clothing for Christmas and toys for children in the hospital.

Irwin is a member of the Optimist Club, the Kiwanis, and the Jaycees, all of Granite City. He also is a member of the Animal Protective Association.

As a member of the Illinois Funeral Directors Association, Irwin supported the association's policy to totally resist any regulation of the funeral industry by the Federal Trade Commission or any federal regulation in violation of State Rights.

Soft drink sales at record

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK

Home Economics Adviser Although many consumers express concern about nutrition and energy conservation, the excessive use of soft drinks undermines their good intentions. Recent U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) statistics indicate soft drink consumption is higher than ever.

USDA figures show that soft drink sales totaled $11.5 billion in 1977 with per capita consumption nearly 34 gallons. This amount is nearly 9 percent more than that consumed in 1976.

Sugar used in beverages totaled over 24 pounds per capita in 1977. Most people do not need and may even suffer from consuming the calories contained in this amount of sugar.

However, both soft drink consumption and sugar used in beverages are expected to increase again this year as consumer incomes and employment rise.

Consumers concerned about energy conservation may nevertheless be high energy users if they buy soft drinks in one-way containers. Canned beverages captured 38 percent of all the soft drink container sales in 1977.

This figure is up from a 34.5 percent share in 1976. Returnable-bottle use dropped to 40 percent, down from 44 percent in 1976. One-way bottles—no deposit, no return—maintained their container market share of 21.5 percent.

As a conservation measure several states and local governments are contemplating outlawing one-way bottles and cans. Aluminum cans can be exempted since they may be recycled.

Job dissatisfaction growing—study shows

Job dissatisfaction among workers in the U.S. declined significantly between 1973 and 1977, according to a "Quality of Employment Survey" produced for the U.S. Department of Labor.

The national survey, conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research and patterned after similar surveys conducted in 1969 and 1973, found that the job satisfaction decline was more pronounced in some groups than in others and was particularly notable among college graduates.

Lowest levels of job satisfaction in 1977 were reported by persons under age 30, black workers, semi-skilled, blue-collar workers and manufacturing industry employees.

Self-employed people reported high levels of satisfaction in 1977.

Commenting on these and other survey findings, Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall cautioned against drawing unduly pessimistic conclusions. "By and large, the majority of American workers are still quite satisfied with most aspects of their jobs. But the decline in job satisfaction over the past four years is significant and cannot be ignored."

"It serves as a warning against complacency and a useful reminder that there is a continuing need for the Labor Department to promote energetically the improvement of conditions at work. These survey data will be of considerable assistance in considering the courses of action the Department might take to achieve that objective," Marshall said.

Among other major findings from the 1977 Quality of Employment Survey are the following:

Family income: About one in five workers judged their family income inadequate to meet their monthly expenses. Among black workers, however, the proportion was substantially higher—three in five.

Fringe benefits: Almost six out of 10 workers expressed a desire for improvements in their existing fringe benefits, with medical insurance, retirement programs, dental plans and paid vacations most frequently cited.

Wage tradeoffs: About half of the workers interviewed expressed willingness benefits, better medical insurance or more paid vacation days. However, less than one in five would forego such a raise for less tiring work, more job autonomy or somewhat safer or more healthful working conditions.

Safety and health: More than three-fourths of the workers reported exposure in their employment to one or more of 13 listed safety and health hazards. An equal proportion felt that workers should have "complete say" or a lot of say in workplace decisions involving safety equipment and practices.

Under-utilization: More than one-third of the respondents said they had skills they would like to use but could not use on their present jobs. Almost as many expressed the belief that they had more education than was required by their jobs.

Labor unions: If representation elections were to be held, about 30 percent of the unorganized white-collar workers and 40 percent of the unorganized blue-collar workers would vote in favor of union representation. Although union members in 1977 expressed criticism of some aspects of their unions' performance, more than seven out of 10 reported that, all in all, they were either "very" or "somewhat" satisfied with their unions.

Fitness program answer to the winter doldrums

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

This is the time of year when many of us suffer from post-holiday, mid-winter depression. One way to help combat the winter doldrums might be to start a program of physical fitness.

If you are physically fit, you will feel better physically and emotionally. Being in good physical condition will increase the ability of your lungs to process oxygen, and your heart to pump blood; improve the condition of your veins and arteries so that your blood flows through them more easily; help you relax and relieve stress; add to your enjoyment of food so that you digest it more readily and suffer less from upsets, indigestion or constipation; lower your blood cholesterol; increase your reserves of physical and mental energy; help control weight, improve posture and increase muscle power; help you sleep better and wake up more refreshed.

To start your physical fitness program, first see your doctor for complete physical examination, especially if you are over 35. Your doctor will help you find the fitness program and diet plan that is right for you.

Next, set up an exercise schedule that's "tailor-made" for you. In the beginning, get at least one hour of exercise per week. Exercise daily, or at least four or five times a week, for ten minutes. To be effective, exercise must be continuous and vigorous enough to work up a sweat.

But, remember, if you are just starting a fitness program, you will have to build up your strength and endurance gradually. If pain develops, or breathing becomes difficult, stop.

Walking, even in winter weather, is one of the best exercises—it's free; it can be done anytime; it tones up muscles, calms nerves and burns off fat; it helps you sleep better.

A program that alternates walking and jogging can help you develop a strong heart and an efficient circulatory system. Start with all walking. After a few weeks, begin alternating jogging and walking (50 to 100 paces of each). Gradually increase your amount of jogging and walk up total distance.

The "trick" to any exercise program is to stick with it. You cannot expect to overcome years of inactivity in a few days. Having a friend or family member join you in exercising may help you stay with it.

And, keep in mind that there is more to fitness than regular exercise. You should also eat right, learn to relax, get six to eight hours sleep every night and avoid stress.

SIUE Department of English It is hard to be objective toward a book about an athlete one greatly admires written by an author one greatly admires.

Pete Axthelm's study of the modern novel was a highlight of my education, and I still get a lump in the throat re-reading his account of the Grand Ole Opry's last night in the Ryman Auditorium.

Admiration for Steve Caution, the incredibly talented jockey, who is also a modest, poised, courteous teenager, brings another kind of lump to the throat.

Many racing enthusiasts simply call Caution a "natural." But Axthelm seeks the source of Steve's winning ways with both people and horses.

He discovers a devoted family and years of hard work in Caution's success story.

Much of the Steve Caution story remains to be told. When the thoroughbreds break from the starting gate at Churchill Downs on the first Saturday of May in 1979, he will still be a teenager.

But a biography, like a horse race, requires a good start. Axthelm has accomplished this. One hopes that he will continue to pursue Caution's story just as Steve does the winner's circle—and wish them both continued success.

welding sculpture, creating beautiful birds and fish out of metal. Below is one of the McCord's cowboys, riding a hammerhead horse.

Odds and ends become works of art

Sculpture can take many forms. Some chisel away at stone. Others form beautiful things in clay. Unlike the masters of the past, today's artists are using some pretty unusual things to create art.

In the case of Paul McCord, a welding instructor at Granite City High School South, materials are easier to come by than stone or clay. He just picks up the odds and ends of metal that he finds around his home and his shop. McCord has been creating what he calls "junk art" for the past six years or so. He also creates some very beautiful pieces of metal sculpture using his talent and the welder's torch.

He first became interested in the unusual art form when he saw an owl that his brother had created. McCord chuckled at his brother's effort, but it sparked his interest just the same. He went home and copied and improved upon the owl, creating a wall piece that he has done over and over.

The reason that McCord made the owl so many times was the enthusiasm with which the first was received by his friends. Whenever one of those friends expressed an interest in his owl, he would give it to them.

Each time he gave one away, he made another to fill the empty space on the wall in his living room. That space was emptied and filled many times.

McCord is a keeper. In his workshop at South there is a bin. In that bin are scraps from his welding class. He saves nails and screws, nuts and bolts, and any other bit of metal that comes his way in addition to the sheet metal and pieces of welding rod that hit the bin.

It is from all of the "keepers" that McCord's junk art is fashioned. A cowboy riding a horse is fashioned in washers, nuts, old springs and a couple of horse shoes. As McCord put it, "I had a bin full of scrap so I decided to throw some of it together."

"Throwing it together" in this case requires the skills of a master welder, one who really knows his way around a torch. The pieces he has come up with are novel and interesting.

People who saw his junk art were fascinated and wanted some for themselves. McCord, being a generous man, gave his work away. "The materials were free or near free," he said, "I figured if people liked something I made, they should have it."

McCord makes a lot of figures, most of them symbolic of some phase of someone's life. A hot-headed golfer might receive a little metal image of himself, breaking a golf club over his knee. One time he made an entire hockey team. Each metal player was given to a member of a boy's hockey team as a participation trophy.

The artist has taken his hobby into his classroom. For about four weeks out of each semester, McCord's students try their hand at junk art, or sculpture. The welding instructor contends that there is a fine line between the two art forms.

"Making junk art is a fun project for my students," McCord said. "They can apply the welds they have learned and have fun at the same time. They also end up with something to show the folks."

"Some of my kids try sculpture, which means making a form and using brass to form birds and fish and things that take a conventional shape," he continued, "but those who try junk art find that they can make some pretty unusual stuff out of odds and ends."

McCord's art form is relaxing, or so the artist says. What could be relaxing about working with molten metal and flaming torches might boggle the mind of the non-welders, but McCord said that 11 years of teaching has made him careful.

"Oh, I get burned on occasion, but that is an occupational hazard for me. If I have fun and people like what I do, what's a little blister now and then?"

THEFT AT FERALLOY

An undetermined amount of change was stolen from three vending machines at Feralloy Corp., 2500 Nameoki Drive, it was discovered early this week. An acetylene torch was used to cut the machines open. A fork lift truck motor also was started and left running, consuming nearly a tank full of fuel. An inventory was to be conducted to determine if anything else is missing.

Agriculture Census underway

The 1978 Census of Agriculture is underway with the mailing of report forms to all farms and ranches in the 50 States, it has been announced by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce. Farmers and ranchers are being asked to report on their agricultural operations during 1978. This census, the nation's 21st farm census in a series that started in 1840, will update data most recently obtained in 1975 for 1974 operations. Information will be sought on all agricultural operations. With report forms for the 1978 census drastically reduced from the 22 pages of the last census, most agricultural operators will receive a four-page form in the mail, and about 20 percent will receive a five-page version. The overall time required by farmers to complete the form has been reduced by more than one-third.

The census will continue to monitor trends in domestic ownership and control of land. The last check showed a five-year gain in the number of U.S. corporate farms from 22,000 to 29,000; the amount of acreage they farmed rose from 80 to 97 million acres, and the value of their farm products rose from $6 billion to $14 billion. Census officials also point to these features of the 1978 census:

A second copy of the report form which the respondent can complete and keep for his own records.

The option of receiving major county data merely by checking a box on the form. A time extension which will be granted farmers who request it.

An improved mailing list, and a "Were You Counted?" campaign for any farmer inadvertently omitted.

The law which requires farmers to answer the census items also protects the privacy of answers. Since 1900, census report forms have been confidential by law. They may be seen only by sworn Census employees and may be used only for statistical totals.

Even other government agencies cannot obtain or use the reports made by any farm operator. Neither can anyone use legal means to obtain a copy of the report retained by the operator in his files.

Farm operators who do not receive a form during the first week of January should request one from the Bureau of the Census, 1201 East 10th Street, Jeffersonville, Indiana, 47132.

Association of Scholars formed on SIUE campus

The Association of Scholars at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, a newly-organized group of faculty members and students "devoted to the promotion of scholarly activity among students, and to the enhancement of the intellectual and cultural life of the University," has been formed. It was announced this week. Its officers and a series of activities being planned for 1979 also were announced.

Established in connection with the Presidential Scholars Program at the University, the Association of Scholars plans to sponsor activities such as campus speakers, cultural events, discussion and study groups, seminars and social gatherings, according to Howard Davis, coordinator of the Deans College and executive secretary of the association.

The second lecture sponsored by the association will be presented Jan. 16 by Prof. John Adkins Richardson on the subject, "Analysis: Intuition and Intellect in 19th and 20th Century Art." Open to the campus community, the lecture will be presented at 2:30 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the University Center.

A professor in the department of art and design of the School of Fine Arts and Communications, Dr. Richardson is the author of numerous articles on art criticism and aesthetics and has been a commercial and technical illustrator. He has exhibited widely, both nationally and abroad. He is also the author of "Modern Art and Scientific Thought."

Dr. Annette Baich, professor of biological sciences in the School of Science and Technology, gave the first Association of Scholars lecture on Dec. 7, on the subject, "Scholarship and Science."

Members of the Executive Committee of the Association of Scholars are: president — Katherine E. Hellig, a Presidential Scholar from Belleville; vice-president president-elect — William S. Whitson, associate professor of anatomy, School of Dental Medicine, and a mentor for the Presidential Scholar Program; past-president — Ronald J. Glossop, professor of philosophical studies in the School of Humanities and a Presidential Scholar; mentor, and member-at-large — Roxanne M. Jenemann, a Presidential Scholar from Arnold, Mo.

Dr. Glossop was named past-president on the basis of his position as chairman of the Steering Committee for the establishment of the Association of Scholars. Dr. Davis said the association will "encourage and underwrite student creative work in literature, science and the arts, and will encourage and facilitate the use by student scholars of the campus radio station, the campus newspaper, and of other local media for the purpose of enhancing the intellectual and cultural life of the entire University community."

He added that the association hopes to facilitate the formation on campus of chapters of national honor societies and travel of student representatives to meetings of regional and national groups of importance to student scholars.

All Presidential Scholars and mentors are members of the association. Any student with a 4.5 grade-point average may become a member, upon receiving recommendations from two faculty members who belong to the organization. Other students who wish to join may apply to the Executive Committee for special consideration.

Any faculty member or eligible student may join by notifying the executive secretary that he or she wishes to do so. Dr. Davis' office is Room 1337 of the John S. Rensselaer Building.

The Presidential Scholars Program, which is designed to assist in attracting to the University students of outstanding academic abilities and potential, was inaugurated in 1978 with the admittance of 20 scholars as freshmen. The program provides monetary assistance, special academic status, and individualized educational opportunities for the exceptional students selected.
